
Miller, the barracks and armory at Fifty-eighth street and Lexington avenue, and obtained twenty-five automatic revolvers, the property of the United States government.

Some Recent Robbery Victims. It is believed some of these guns were used in the robbery of Clyde Larish a week ago last Saturday night. Larish was walking home from a student's settlement dance he had conducted. As he crossed the Midway three men covered him with revolvers. They obtained $15. Larish, just before leaving the dance, had turned $700 over to another student.

One of the most recent robbery victims was J. H. Platt, who lives at North hall, 5823 Ellis avenue. He was held up on the campus, but his money was concealed in an inner pocket and the robbers obtained nothing.

Edgar J. Goodspeed, secretary to President Harry Pratt Judson, admitted last night he had heard reports of criminal activity, but said he was "not in a position to discuss them."

"However," he concluded, "I think it would be an excellent measure for the South Park commission to provide more police protection for the university."

President Judson said he had heard of no kidnapping cases, but that there had been some criminal activity and guards had been employed.

"I believe there is no more crime in this vicinity than in any other part of the city," he said. But terror prevails among the co-eds, notwithstanding.

SEEK EX-LEGISLATOR

Lieut. William Schoemaker of the detective bureau made public last night the details of the confession obtained from William Bickel, one of the men involved in the attempted holdup of the Ashland pharmacy which resulted in the murder of Policeman Conlon and the killing of Thomas Heavey, one of the bandits.

As a result of the information he had obtained, the lieutenant said he was searching for James Grady, 900 South Oakley boulevard, the fourth member of the holdup gang; Thomas Fitzpatrick, 2214 Ogden avenue, Heavey's pal; Johnny Walker, alias Walker Brownie; Jack Arlington; Randall Marshall, an ex-state representative now running a saloon at Ogden avenue and Jackson boulevard, where Bickel said the gang was allowed to store loot, and a half dozen more named by Bickel.

Kill Quickly as Possible. "Heavey was a hard, hard guy," said Bickel. "He always told us that we should never take chances with anybody. If anybody resisted us, Heavey said, we should waste no words, but kill them as quickly as possible. He had a particular grudge against policemen, and often would wish he might kill more of them."

Bickel is said to have told Lieut. Schoemaker that he first saw Heavey when he ran into the saloon owned by Walker. Bickel said, told him Heavey had just robbed somebody and was hiding the loot and his revolver in the basement.

GOBS OVERPOWER GUARD, GET $140, FLEE; 1 CAUGHT. Four sailors confined in the guard house at Great Lakes Naval Training station escaped last night, overpowered a guard, tied him to a tree, stole his rifle and $140 and ran.

The sentinel worked his bonds loose before they had escaped the station and captured one of the men. The others escaped.

Detective Sergeant John Ryan stationed men to watch all incoming interurban trains in an attempt to capture the men. One is named Crepey, another J. J. McDonald, the third has not been identified.

Young Duncan Is Seen on Street in Up to Date Garb. PARIS, Dec. 19.—Menakas, the son of Raymond Duncan, who disappeared on Friday evening, clad in sandals and a white smock, was seen in the street this morning with his hair cut short and wearing a derby hat, jacket and trousers. He was walking with a man who till recently was one of the little colony of pseudo-Greeks to whom Raymond Duncan is a prophet.

PREPAREDNESS—11TH HOLDUP FATAL

A holdup man was killed last night by policemen who had been stationed in the drug store of O. W. Mason at 5034 Cottage Grove avenue since the store was held up for the tenth time. John Burke, detective sergeant, was slightly injured. He was shot in the thumb.

1,000,000 IDLE, BOYCOTT BRITISH GOODS, ERIN PLEA. Resolutions protesting against "the crimes perpetrated by the British government against the people of Ireland," calling on congress and the president of the United States to refuse to recognize the British ambassador as the representative of the Irish and demanding recognition of the republic of Ireland as a legally constituted government were adopted by 3,000 persons who attended a mass meeting last night in Carmon's hall, Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic. Boycott of British made goods also was urged as the most effective weapon in behalf of Ireland at this time. The resolutions said "one million Americans who offered their lives in the world war that the small peoples of the world might have the right of self-determination, now are walking the streets as the result of shutting down of factories and shops while the warehouses are full of the products of England."

Cheers for De Valera. There were cheers and yells at the mention of the name of Eamon De Valera, president of the "Irish republic," jeers and hisses for Lloyd George and Sir Hamar Greenwood, and silence at the mention of President Wilson, pictured as the untiring friend of England.

The principal address was delivered by Congressman William E. Mason, who warned against the unfair propaganda which he declared England was circulating among Protestants, "stirring up religious prejudice and poisoning their minds against human liberty."

Not Dangerous to England. "This is not a religious question," he declared. "It is a matter of justice. Don't let them make you believe that free Ireland would be dangerous to England because a majority of the people go to a different church."

Miss Mary MacWhorter, who recently returned from a three months' tour of Ireland, pictured the suffering that has come to the men, women, and children of Ireland as the result of the clashes with the British.

CHICAGOAN GOES TO AID OF WIFE IN GOTHAM CELL. John Walter Brooks, Chicago insurance agent, arrived in New York yesterday to aid his wife, Mrs. Lucille Emma Brooks, who is held in connection with the murder of Police Lieut. Floyd Horton. Horton was shot while fighting one of the hands of robbers which recently have terrified Manhattan. Brooks sent word to his wife through her attorney, Frank Hendrik, that he believes in her innocence, and will back her to the limit of his resources.

Mr. Brooks tried to see his wife in the Harlem prison, where she is held pending arraignment in court, but failed.

PLUNKETT IN U.S. SAYS IRISH BILL IS BOUND TO FAIL

Repugnant to Four-fifths of Erin.

New York, Dec. 18.—The British government's "Irish bill," which awaits the king's approval to become a law, will never be acceptable to Ireland, Sir Horace Plunkett, Irish statesman and father of the "dominion solution bill," said today on his arrival from Liverpool.

The bill, Sir Horace declared, represents the interests of only about one-fifth of the people of Ireland and is repugnant to the remaining four-fifths. "It is not the way to Irish peace," he added.

British People Not Informed. Sir Horace said he would not appear as a witness before the committee of one hundred investigating conditions in Ireland, and he explained his visit here as solely one of recreation.

Sir Horace said that the Irish question was made difficult in Great Britain because the British people were not informed of the true conditions in Ireland. He asserted that if they were informed nine-tenths of the British public would be against the Irish bill as it now stands.

CORK WITNESS COMING. Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—Eye witnesses of the burning of Cork are expected to testify before the committee of one hundred investigating conditions in Ireland, some time during the week of Dec. 26.

Frank P. Walsh, counsel for the American commission for Irish independence, announced today that he had received a cablegram from Daniel O'Connell, lord mayor of Cork, saying the lord mayor would "endeavor to have several witnesses in Washington a week from Monday."

Believing by the commission will be resumed Tuesday.

QUAKING ANDES START GEYSERS; DEATHS INCREASE

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 18.—Earthquake shocks which on Friday afternoon destroyed several towns along the Argentine slope of the Andes were the most severe experienced in this country since 1893, when half the city of Mendoza was laid in ruins.

More than 150 bodies already have been taken from wrecks of buildings. The latest reports from Mendoza, coming in tonight, said that the shock at Trepovento had assumed the proportions of a catastrophe. Three relief trains have been rushed to the town from which thirty dead and as many dying had been brought out.

At Cordoba de Araya, which was virtually isolated, another violent shock occurred this morning. The death list was increased to eighty-one.

The convulsion opened great crevasses out of which hot water is spouting, in one case reaching a height of fifteen feet and forming a pool in which two persons were drowned. More than 30,000 persons inhabit little towns along the eastern Andean slope, and as reports add to the long list of casualties apprehension is felt that the final figures will be high.

Tokio Reports Great Upheaval. TOKIO, Dec. 18.—The most violent earthquake that has occurred since seismicographic observations commenced in Japan took place Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The vibrations lasted two hours, and were so severe that the instruments were unable to give perfect records. It is believed the convulsion took place under the Pacific ocean or in the Gobi Desert, Central Asia.

Better Advertising Needed by Retailers!

Years of marking time in retail advertising, followed by an orgy of "cut price" offers, leave average and small retailers in serious need of resourceful help in advertising and merchandising.

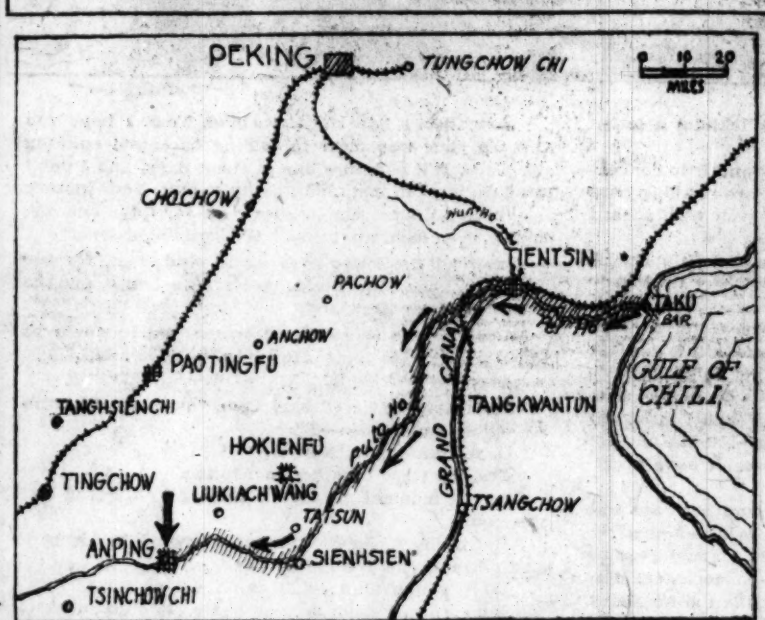

This will be one 1921 task of the national advertiser, whose progress finally is measured by the success of his retail merchant customers.

Obviously, plans of the general advertiser must contemplate much besides advertisements in newspapers, farm papers and magazines. A genuine service for retailers will be part of a policy of thoroughness in utilizing national campaigns.

We take extra pains with retailer and trade paper advertising for our clients, knowing from 16 years' experience how much this can do in drawing dealers closer to their manufacturer. It will mean much for your retailers to have a Mitchell-Faust advertising plan.

AIDING STARVING CHINA

The shaded curving line marked by arrows on the accompanying map shows the course taken by the American and British Chinese famine relief expedition from Tientsin to Anping, where headquarters for distribution have been established. Anping is the nearest suitable point for distribution to the heart of the famine district. People are perishing in all the territory shown on the map. The expedition's route lay through the valleys of the Pata Ho and Pei Ho rivers, up which five great barges laden with grain and other foodstuffs were drawn by coolies—camel boats are drawn by mules—in harness.

AMERICAN GRAIN SAVING LIVES OF 10,000 CHINESE

Still 110,000 Must Die in Anping County.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

ANPING, China, Dec. 19.—The law of supply and demand, evoked by the great famine which has gripped

Chihli province, has decreed that in Anping alone 110,000 men, women and children of China's starving millions must perish this winter.

The total population of Anping county is 190,000.

Seventy thousand have been able to purchase at exorbitant prices the necessities of life.

The law of humanity, enforced solely by American kindness and pluck has brought food and a leasehold on life through the winter months and will the next harvest time to the remaining

10,000.

It is the Rev. F. J. Griffith, missionary of the Church of England, who balances the scales which hold in one pan death for 110,000; in the other life for 10,000.

Americans Set the Stage.

On his nice discrimination the stores of grain donated by Americans, assembled in Manting by Americans, transported to Tientsin by American army transport, and forced up the Pato-Ho and Pei-Ho rivers to Anping under direction of American army officers, are being dealt out to those who are to survive the famine.

His granary is an old Confucian temple and in its courtyard a bowl of soup is issued each day to each of more than 2,000 families—not the families who receive the grain. The soup alone is not sufficient to sustain life.

Dr. Griffith is 51 years of age. He is five feet and four inches tall and weighs 190 pounds. He has been in China twenty-six years. He was born in Wales but was brought up in Bristol, England, where his family now lives.

How It Was Done.

In the following official report, written by Dr. Griffith, will be found an account of the great work accomplished in slightly over five days.

He tells how he determined between life and death for the 10,000.

The writer of this article was sent down to this district on Oct. 11, to take a survey of the area with a view to finding out the population, and an approximate number that were on the verge of starvation. It was in the hands of the International Famine Relief society in Peking, to try and keep alive some of these starving by the means of regular distribution of grain to the selected number. A brief survey of the plan, and the preparation that has been already made to carry out this scheme, is the object of this report.

Area Under Consideration.

"Anping is just one of the harem counties of Chihli. The distance north to south, or east to west, is somewhere about twenty-five miles. It is situated in the center of the province, close to 140 miles southwest of Tientsin.

"The day we reached Anping we called on the city magistrate and arranged with him the plan for taking the census of the county. Two days after the district police inspectors and some of the leading village elders were called to a conference at the city magistrate's office. We laid before them our plans and requested a return under villages, families, and number of adult males and females, also boys and girls, in each family. The elders of each village were held responsible for the correct rendering of these returns.

"We were particularly anxious not only to find out the total population

but also the proportion who are on the verge of starvation, and who will not

How Americans and British Are Saving Lives of Starving Thousands in China

At 8 o'clock each morning the gates of this great Confucian temple in Anping, China, are thrown open and the waiting hordes are admitted. It is here in the vast courtyard that the International Famine Relief association has opened its soup kitchen, from which representatives of more than 2,000 starving Chinese families receive each day a bowl of soup for each family. The distribution takes place each noon, but the courtyard is filled hours before that hour with all classes of Chinese, brought to a common level by starvation. American perseverance and pluck made this possible, and the foodstuffs were taken to Tientsin in American transports and were escorted up the two rivers to Anping by American army officers. The actual distribution of food is in charge of the Rev. F. J. Griffith, an Englishman.

Up the valleys of the Pato-Ho and Pei-Ho, from Tientsin to Anping, in the famine district of Chihli province, five great barges, bearing relief cargoes of foodstuffs, were driven by stork-cooled engines against the current of the streams, which grow swifter with every mile.

This high type farmer boy of Anping county is induced by the ravages of famine to sink his pride and come to the soup kitchen in Anping with a bowl, where it is filled each day by the International Famine Relief workers. This type the Rev. F. J. Griffith hopes to save.

The facial expression of this child is not the appeal of a beggar, but of a starving boy. He is pleading for food to American army officers camped on the way to the soup kitchen at Anping. Few of these can be saved.

This aged blind woman, on being given her bowl of soup, was unable to restrain her hunger and drank copiously of it before she was stopped by attendants. Then she was led home to her waiting family, there to divide what remained in the bowl.

HARDING OFFERED MANY PANELS TO MAKE A CABINET

Hilles in Treasury, Latest Front Porch Entry.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Marion, O., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—Charles D. Hilles of New York is a probable candidate for the secretaryship of the treasury. It developed today after a visit to Marion by Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr. of New York. Mr. Hilles is the candidate of the east, while George M. Reynolds and Charles G. Dawes Chicago bankers hold the field for the west. Senator Wadsworth, it was learned strongly recommended Mr. Hilles, and also pressed the case for the appointment of Ellihu Root to the state port folk.

Mr. Hilles is Republican committee man from his state and former chair man of that body. He was at one time secretary to President Taft. Despite his claims the western candidates are said to be holding first place in consideration of the president elect.

Other Names in the List.

Another contest has developed over the interior department, with Herbert Hoover said to be in the lead. Cabinet talk today is the first time put a doubt on the appointment of John W. Weeks, Massachusetts, to a position. Henry Wallace, Des Moines, a strong candidate for the department of agriculture, cannot be placed there confidently. Gov. Lowden of Illinois is being urged for this place.

Another Chicago man whose name was brought forward prominently today is that of Albert D. Lasker, who had charge of publicity during the campaign. He is being urged for secretary of commerce. Friends of one eastern man are opposing this and the contest again assumes a geographical aspect.

May Recognize South.

It is considered highly probable that Mr. Harding will recognize the south, which has been so kind to him, in his cabinet selections. Men under consideration are John C. Morehead, North Carolina; Newell Anderson, Tennessee; and A. T. Hart, Kentucky. Harry M. Dwyer, Ohio, pre-convention manager for Mr. Harding, will in all probability be appointed attorney general and Will Hays postmaster general.

If Root and Daugherty are appointed this would leave such cabinet timber as Charles Evans Hughes and George Sutherland, former Utah senator, out in the cold.

In this connection Mr. Harding has a new field in possibility for placing such men. It is understood that Chief Justice White of the Supreme court will resign soon after the new administration comes into power, and Justices McKenna, Day, and Holmes may be expected to resign soon.

Means Available Posts.

This would provide places for former President Taft, who is expected in Marion this week. Mr. Hughes, and Mr. Sutherland.

Mr. Harding has made no definite pledges of cabinet posts and his mind appears to remain open on the subject. Col. Robert R. McCormick of this Chicago Tribune breakfasted at the Harding home and afterwards accompanied Senator and Mrs. Harding and Mrs. New to church.

Senator Wadsworth made it clear that the Harding plan for an association of nations is progressing smoothly and will meet with the approval of nearly every Republican leader.

This plan, believed to enter into a friendly arrangement with the other great powers, either through present treaties or by amendments, agreeing to submit disputes to the league court, settle on an international code, provide for partial disarmament and pledge conferences of a nonbinding nature in the event of dispute.

The plan will not depart in any way from the principles laid down by Mr. Harding during the campaign.

War Relief Bill Causes Serious Rioting in Rome

ROME, Dec. 19.—Police, carabinieri and troops were called out late Saturday night to repress a demonstration before the chamber of deputies made by persons favoring a bill granting an appropriation of more than 300,000,000 lire yearly in pensions to persons permanently disabled in the war, and to orphans, widows, and parents of those killed in the fighting. Several persons were wounded in the melee, during which several revolver shots were fired and missiles were hurled, the latter including crutches.

SPANISH LEADERS NONCOMMITTAL ON BRITISH PACT

MADRID, Dec. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Although Marquis de Lema, Spanish foreign minister, was non-committal today when questioned regarding the reports of an important treaty having been concluded between Spain and Great Britain, there is inclination in the highest political circles here to give credit to the indications which have found publicity recently from various quarters that Spain intends to break away from the isolation which has been her policy since the restoration of the monarchy. The foreign minister's informal statement was that he was unable to give a definite reply to the inquiry regarding the reported Anglo-Spanish treaty, but he remarked that the relations between the two countries were of the most cordial nature. It is generally admitted, however, that conversations have been progressing for several months with a view to the negotiation of a strong commercial convention with Great Britain.

NAVAL HOLIDAY LOOKS GOOD TO BRITAIN, JAPAN

Powers' League Leaders Favor Plan.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1920, By The Chicago Tribune.)
GENEVA, Dec. 19.—Japan and Great Britain are ready to make a naval holiday with the United States.

As the result of conversations I had today with British and Japanese delegates to the league of nations assembly, I can state that those two powers are ready to enter negotiations for truce in intensive naval construction.

The bases of my assertion are interviews with Arthur J. Balfour, Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain, and Baron Hiyashi, Japanese ambassador to Great Britain and Viscount Ishii, ambassador to France.

It must be stated, however, that realistic dreams of perpetual peace do not actuate this willingness for armistice in the race for sea power supremacy. The British are willing, even anxious, for a naval holiday until the admiralty decides whether to pin its faith upon capital ships or submarines. The Japanese are prepared for a truce until their navy yards and ship building plants are completed, thus enabling them to proceed with naval construction faster than now.

Cost a Big Factor.
And the principal factor actuating both governments is the financial situation which is pinching Great Britain more than Japan and already has aroused a strong economy campaign throughout England.

The British would construe a naval holiday as meaning ceasing of work on all warships under construction as well as not laying any more keels. The Japanese are ready to proceed on an agreement for finishing ships under construction and canceling the future naval programs.

"I am certain the Japanese government would not decline to share in an agreement for a naval holiday," Baron Hiyashi said today, "and if I headed the Japanese government I would urge it."

Expects No War.
"Intensive construction of warships causes a feeling of uneasiness throughout the world, but I do not think the increasing size of the navies of the three principal sea powers will result in war among them."

"I live in London, and do not believe the English public opinion would permit another war. I am told that American public opinion is opposed to another war, and I am positive Japanese public opinion is firmly and solidly against any war."

"Besides the general uneasiness intensive naval construction causes, one must think of the gigantic economic waste in spending millions of money and huge amounts of material annually for armaments. After the Russo-Japanese war the Japanese did not realize the effect the naval battles had on changing in construction of warships. The British dreadnaught was evolved as a result of this war. But Japan knew nothing of the plans for this type until it was afloat."

Built Obsolete Ships.
"As a result the first three or four warships Japan built after the Russian war were along the old lines and were worthless."

"Now Great Britain seems undecided whether to follow capital ships or submarines. Japan adopted a naval program which is no secret and which embraces construction both of capital ships and submarines over a period of six or seven years."

"That is why I am unable to pledge my government to the league of nations to abandon it and keep the naval budget as small as the disarmament terms of the covenant provide."

At the close of the assembly Mr. Balfour told me that the absence of the United States was the principal factor which prevented the league from putting through the disarmament scheme.

"Every one realized we could not proceed with reduction of armaments tonnage."

FIRST ICE OF SEASON—SKATERS HAPPY

Skating on the Midway—At the left Arthur White is tying Miss Frances White's shoestring. At the right—Viola Hansler and Clifford Clark.

Throngs on Ice

"At last!"
This was the heartfelt exclamation of throngs who sought the Midway yesterday and had their first skating of the winter.

The lagoons have been flooded for some time. When old King Winter rode into town Saturday night on the crest of a northwest wind he brought the long coveted ice.

There was the usual coterie of old timers who speeded about on well sharpened steel, graceful as of yore and anxious to show off. New skaters, too, were there, upsetting the "eagle spreaders" and "figure eight" cutters. The tyros had many a fall and went home sore in spots but happy withal. Now if it will just stay "frozen" for a while—until our day off—we might get out there ourselves.

without America in the league," said Balfour.

Experts at Sea.
Naval experts here representing the big powers are unable to understand Josephus Daniels' statements that a naval holiday among Great Britain, Japan, and the United States alone would be insufficient protection for America.

With the German fleet at the bottom of Scapa Flow, the Russian fleet obsolete, scattered and worthless, and France and Italy practically nonexistent as sea powers, and having no construction programs, naval officers wonder what powers Daniels fears.

Not a single large modern fighting ship is owned outside the three big naval powers today. Certain naval quarters declare Great Britain's anxiety to obtain a naval holiday is to permit sparing for time until the admiralty decides on the question of big ships or submarines.

Think Both Would Agree.
With Germany disappeared as a sea power, and with Great Britain allied with Japan, she has no apprehensions except of the United States.

That Japan might be ready to abandon her post-Jutland types, especially if the British decide in favor of submarines, is the belief in some naval quarters.

Diplomats and naval experts coincide in belief that if the United States proposes a naval holiday to London and Tokio, both will accept gladly in order to curb the American appetite for sea power which eventually would be bound to exceed British or Japanese.

TROTSKY AIMING AT UPRISING TO WRECK GERMANY

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Victor Kopp, Russian soviet representative in Berlin, has been working under written instructions from Minister of War Trotsky "to do everything in his power to bring about a revolution in Germany and overthrow the present government." It is charged by the pan-German Deutsche Zeitung in tonight's issue.

A photographic copy of Trotsky's letter is in possession of Foreign Minister Simons, the newspaper says, and it makes a demand for Kopp's immediate expulsion or arrest.

According to the newspaper, the letter was written during the victorious march of the bolshevik armies toward Warsaw. Since then, says the article, Kopp has had every opportunity to visit the Russian prison camps in Germany, where 160,000 Russians are held.

77 PHILIPPINE COPS TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

MANILA, Dec. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Charges of murder will be filed in court Monday by the city prosecutor against seventy-seven Filipino constabulary soldiers as a result of the rioting Wednesday in which four Americans and seven Filipinos were killed, Governor General Francis Burton Harrison announced today.

He said charges eventually would be made against all who participated in the fighting or were connected with the alleged conspiracy to commit murder. The soldiers have been confined in the insular penitentiary for safe-keeping, on sedition charges filed yesterday by the city prosecutor.

"Investigation of other men and officers of the constabulary who may be culpable or may be implicated in the unspeakable affair Wednesday night is being continued by my instructions," said the governor general. "Action will be taken according to circumstances as they develop. The sedition charges were made in order to hold the soldiers pending a more serious accusation."

Italian Deficit to Be Slightly Diminished

ROME, Dec. 19.—Finance Minister Meda told the provisional estimates commission of the chamber of deputies today that the deficit estimated in June at 1,400,000,000 lire would be slightly diminished. He declared the amount of official currency in circulation had increased very little and that bank currency had increased only so far as was necessary in connection with the supply of foodstuffs.

SENIORITY RULE IS BLAMED FOR PARIS FAUX PAS

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

(Copyright, 1920, By The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, Dec. 19.—It was accident that placed the German ambassador to France next to Mrs. Hugh Wallace, wife of the American ambassador, at a dinner given by Raoul Peret, the president of the chamber of deputies, in honor of the diplomatic corps. It was on that occasion that Mr. Wallace refused to be introduced to the German ambassador on the ground that the two countries technically were still at war, and Mrs. Wallace, taking the cue from her husband, refused to engage in conversation with the German during the course of the meal.

A protocol places the guests around the table to the right, the rule being that they are placed according to the date their credentials were accepted. At the dinner on Wednesday, owing to the absence of the Italian and Spanish ambassadors, Mr. Wallace had the honor guest place to the right of Mrs. Peret, and Mrs. Wallace consequently was placed to the right of M. Peret. Belgian Ambassador Caple followed to the left of M. Peret. Sig. Da Cunha of Brazil should have followed to the right of Mrs. Wallace, but was absent. Mayor of Germany followed instead.

The German embassy has issued the following statement:

"The German ambassador wishes to state that an erroneous version appeared in the press regarding his request to be introduced to the United States ambassador when they said he made his request before the dinner. The request was expressly due to the fact that Mrs. Wallace was placed next to the German ambassador and it seemed proper to him to ask to be introduced."

FREE CANAL TOLL IS A POLITICAL FORM REVERSAL

Hard to Prophecy How Congress Will Jump.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—When the question of exemption of American ships from the payment of Panama canal tolls comes up in the next congress the situation, from a party point of view, will be the reverse of what it was eight years ago.

In 1912 the Democratic platform advocated free tolls for American coastwise ships, while the Republican platform was silent. In 1914 President Wilson repudiated the Baltimore plan, and, accomplishing the repeal of the free tolls clause in the Panama act, committed his party to opposition to the exemption. This year the Republican platform advocated the exemption of all American ships from tolls, while the Democratic platform was silent.

How They Voted Before.
There will be forty-four members of the senate in the next congress who voted on the measure, seventeen of them for voting for and twenty-seven against free tolls for American coastwise ships. Those who voted for free tolls and against the repeal were:

REPUBLICANS.
Borah, La Follette, Smoot, Cummins, Page, Townsend, Dillingham, Penrose, Warren, Jones (Wash.), Fiske, etc.
DEMOCRATS.
Ashurst, Reed, Walsh (Mont.), Borah, Lodge, Norris, McCarver, Sterling, Clegg, McLean, Smith (S. C.), Lenroot, Nelson, (W. V.), Glass, Pittman, Swanson, Cullerson, Overman, Simmons, Fletcher, Owen, Smith (S. C.), Glass, Pittman, Swanson, Hatcher, Pomeroy, Underwood, McCallister, Sheppard, Williams, Myers.

Midwestern members of the house in the next congress who voted in 1914 for free tolls and against the repeal, all Republicans, are:

REPUBLICANS.
Anthony, Forney, Dyer, Campbell, Keeler, Langer, Cooper, Mages, Towney, Cranston, Woodruff, etc.
DEMOCRATS.
Britten, Davis, Good, Copley, Stinson, Green, McKenna, Volstead, Haugen (Ia.), Madden, Frear, Kinkaid, Mann, etc.
DEMOCRATS.
Barkley, Rouse, Padgett, Cantrell, Byrns, Rucker, Fields, Garrett, Carter, Johnson.

Some Present Day Opinions.
Here are the views of some midwestern senators on the new issue of toll exemption:
McCUMBER (N. D., Rep.)—There is no room for argument. Under the treaty we are obligated to treat the vessels of all nations alike. Unless we break faith we cannot grant free tolls to American vessels.

CURTIS (Kan., Rep.)—As a means of building up an American merchant should be exempt.
WATSON (Ind., Rep.)—I stand for free tolls for American ships.

JAPAN DEMANDS REDS STAY OUT OF VLADIVOSTOK

But They Can Have Balance of Russia.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
[Copyright, 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.]
TOKIO, Dec. 19.—Japan believes that Russian reconstruction will be easiest realized by "leaving Russia to the Russians," according to Vice Admiral Kawahara, who returned today to Tokyo from Vladivostok, where he was in command of the fifth flotilla.

Tonight, in defining Japanese policy toward communism, he declared:

"Events, both expected and unexpected, are bound to occur before the Russian republic in the far east finally can be established. China's professions are fair, but what her practices remain to be seen.
"The communists are growing in influence in Vladivostok, and there seems to be no doubt in their minds that they will control the entire maritime province soon.

Firm Against Reds.
"Japan will take every necessary step to maintain the agreement already concluded with the Vladivostok provisional government. Should China attempt to interfere with that agreement by bolshavizing sections where Japanese troops are stationed, the probable consequence would be repatriation of the affair of some months ago, when Japanese troops were forced to disarm the Russian garrison at Vladivostok.

"So long as the Russians refrain from attempts to upset the Japanese position in the Vladivostok region under the existing agreement Japan will remain aloof from Russian internal affairs, believing that Russian reconstruction easiest may be realized by leaving Russia to the Russians.

JAPS CLING TO CHENTAO.
TOKIO, Dec. 19.—The withdrawal of the Japanese expedition to the Chentao district, on the Korean-Manchurian border, which had been contemplated by the government, has been indefinitely postponed, according to the Ji Ji Shimpu today. The newspaper, which says its information is obtained from the most reliable sources, adds that the postponement was because of the increasing gravity of the situation in the district, where Korean insurgents and bandits have been active.

A Tokyo dispatch of Dec. 17 reported a recent attack by Korean insurgents upon a Japanese detachment in the Chentao district, the Japanese being surrounded and losing eighteen killed and thirty-five wounded. Chinese troops finally extricated the Japanese.

WAR SHATTERED MEN NEED YOU, GOOD FELLOWS

$3,500 in 5 Days or They Have No Christmas.

Ho, Mr. Good Fellow!
This thing is growing serious. Let us have your undivided attention this morning.

Have you counted the days remaining before Christmas? Do you realize that in five days you will be celebrating Christmas? Just five days more.
Five short days. Five short days.

Do you realize there are 1,000 wounded veterans of the war in Chicago hospitals? One thousand men, all suffering from some physical injury received in the big jam over there in France?

Some of them have homes—and can't go to them. Some haven't any homes. Many of them sit throughout the day in wheel chairs. Others hobble about on crutches and canes.

Some cough continually. Others collapse when a door is slammed, so shattered are their nerves. They're a mighty downhearted bunch of young men. Mr.
Good Fellow, and three years ago they were so bright and healthy and happy.
Listen, Mr. Good Fellow, these men have to have a Christmas. It isn't something that can be considered with a casual air. It's a serious problem.
They must have a Christmas.

$3,500 More Is Needed.

The problem is just this:
Some of you Good Fellows have sent in your contributions to the Christmas fund for the soldiers. But if each and every soldier is to be given a proper Christmas, we must have $3,500 more.
That's a big order, isn't it, Mr. Good Fellow? A big order. But just think of the order those soldiers filled when they won that war. And think of the price they paid—the price they are still paying.

Now if those men—1,000 of them—are going to have a smile on Christmas day you Good Fellows will have to send in to THE TRIBUNE $3,500. There is an army of Good Fellows large enough to raise twice that amount. But you must hurry—hurry—hurry.

So get busy with your check books.
Drop around to THE TRIBUNE building at 7 South Dearborn street with your contribution, or mail it in to the Good Fellow fund.

An appeal was issued yesterday to the 3,000 Marines in Chicago to contribute to a fund being raised by Marine post, No. 165, American Legion, to brighten the Christmas of wounded Marines in the marine hospital, United States Public Health Service hospital at Drexel boulevard and Forty-seventh street, Oak Forest Infirmity, Dunning, Kankakee, and other institutions. It is estimated there are still more than 100 Marines in hospitals here. The Legion post plans to divide the sum raised equally among the patients. All checks and other contributions should be sent to Mr. Marovitz, chairman of the fund committee, 224
South Wabash avenue.

All the Marines will receive candles and other gifts from the various women's auxiliaries and committees which are arranging the Christmas entertainments at the hospitals. Chairman Marovitz said, "but we, their buddies, feel that we want to give them something different. With a check each man can send out and purchase the Christmas present he most desires."

Poor Call for Help.

Here are some letters typical of the many hundreds received every day at struggle, the deprivation the suffering the despair that is afflicting so many four walls in Chicago this Christmas.

Speak out, Good Fellows. If you

A Delightfully New Note In These Frocks of Canton Crepe For Women and Misses, Priced $75

The clever fashion features in these frocks bring fascinating hints of modes to come.
And their very moderate pricings may well mean a fresh new frock, not otherwise possible, for the many, many holiday occasions.

*Graceful Lines and Many Charming New Trimming
Conceits Are Noted in These Attractive Frocks*

A "different" application of silk braid, the novel use of tiny accordion pleatings, open embroidery which gives just a glimpse of contrasting color beneath—these are the touches which immediately indicate the newness of these modes. And it is interesting, too, that the pricings are considerably less than usual for such frocks. The Canton crepe frock

Misses' Crepe de Chine Frocks Priced at $60

The women's frocks are effectively beaded, as one may note in the sketch at the right, $65. The crepe de Chine frocks for misses have flounces of fine accordion pleating. Sketched above at the left center, $60.

Their superior quality is unmistakable. In them one notes those little unguisabilities of garniture and niceties of finish rarely found in blouses so low priced. Some are beautifully beaded, others have embroidery, exquisitely done by hand. Five styles sketched.

A NAVAL HOLIDAY.

The extent of the Japanese military and naval program and the energy with which it is being pressed are phenomena not to be ignored. They need not be exaggerated, but their significance should be frankly faced. The pacifist theory in such cases is to look the other way for fear of provoking conflict. That is how pacifism encourages war.

We trust the incoming government and even the present congress will not follow this course.

We must take into account Japan's military and naval activities. It is perhaps the chief factor in our international problem. We ought to escape, for example, from the costly folly of a naval competition with Great Britain—a process which would threaten our chief creditor with bankruptcy and prepare the way for an insane war. But Japan's policy is the crux of the naval holiday question.

We are confident that Great Britain would welcome a naval holiday. The race with Germany is over and Great Britain at this moment is in undisputed command of the seas. A naval holiday would confirm this command. Therefore Great Britain would find herself relieved of expenditure she cannot afford and without sacrifice of her vital interest.

But Great Britain cannot have a naval holiday by agreement solely with us. If Japan refuses to stop building, we will not stop building. If Japan and the United States do not stop, the British cannot afford to stop.

In fact, that is an inadequate statement. If Japan refuses a holiday the United States must draw the only logical conclusion—namely: that she intends to make war, and against us, unless we concede whatever she proposes.

Drawing that conclusion, we must prepare for war, and that preparation must take the form primarily of intensive naval building. We must not only stop building, we must increase our building.

The strain this would put on Great Britain would be serious, if not fatal, to her financial stability.

Our government therefore should lose no time in proposing an agreement to Great Britain and Japan.

If Japan is reluctant, Great Britain and the United States should then bring the maximum pressure to bear upon her to compel her to come in. We believe this pressure should go to what ever extreme is necessary, even to war, for if we are to fight Japan the quicker the better.

The Japanese government may not wish to apply pressure to Japan. If it is unwilling, our government should make it clear that the alternative is a building race with us which will end in our outstripping the British.

We do not think the British government has any disposition to choose the latter alternative, and we are sure Japan cannot afford to stand out against the combined pressure of England and America. We do not assume Japan wishes to. A naval holiday, unless she cherishes very ambitious plans of conquest, will be advantageous to her. But the possibilities should all be canvassed and presented.

The naval holiday is practicable, we believe. It is certainly one of the most needed measures in the world, giving more promise of peace than any elaborate league of nations.

WHAT CANNOT BE IMPROVISED IN WAR.

If the war proved anything, chalked on the blackboard large enough for every one to see, it is that the technical material and skill of war cannot be improvised. If they are not in being before the war begins they cannot be obtained in time to be of service.

With all the protection the United States had for its industries it could not produce flying machines, guns and other material. It had time for preparation which may never be granted again because we may not have allies holding the line while we get ready.

In spite of that we did not produce material. The organizations of men can be improvised and we did that and fortunately it was men that the allies needed. They could furnish the material, but they could no longer furnish the men.

The air service cannot be improvised. If the United States were to go into a war without an effective air service it would have to fight without one. In all our efforts from April, 1917, to November, 1918, we did not get effective planes in the air.

It is our tradition to do away with military equipment and a military establishment as soon as a war has been fought, but we cannot afford to do away with the technical material required for war. If one comes again we shall have to raise the men for it and to send them in partly trained, but we should not be so unprepared as to send them in without the technical necessities.

Objections to the maintenance of a trained civilian reserve cannot decently run to the maintenance of the technical material. Great Britain dispensed with the principle of civilian training as soon as the war was over, in accordance with traditional policy, but has neglected the flying service. The British are concentrating on the development of naval aeronautics.

Every nation, seemingly, but the United States, has taken the material lessons of the war and is applying them. Japan has an air program which is being effectively carried out.

There are some things a nation must do in peace if it is not to be fatally compromised in war. The encouragement of commercial aviation is part of a good program. The building and improvement of planes and the training of skilled flyers cannot be left to war emergency. In an emergency they cannot be provided.

The least a nation can do for its national safety is to lay down a broad foundation upon which its improvisations in emergency may begin. The Germans affected a public contempt for the British; expeditionary force which they did not feel. Their candid documents reveal admiration and the reason they admired the British force was because it was, as the Germans said, "an army of sergeants."

The sergeant is the backbone of an army and he cannot be improvised. He is a human part of the technical organization which is needed. The United States by a wise use of its professional army and by a wise development and maintenance of necessary material producing industries and crafts can have the basis upon which it could rally its men in time of need. The men will follow because they will be organized without experience, but at least they will have the branches of higher skill in existence. This does not impose the burden of what pacifists and careless people call a great military system. It merely affords the tools and the skill needed in the conduct of war.

A government which has failed to provide these things ought to be excused by the people it has failed in emergency. The American air service ought to be maintained and promoted so that the best types of planes and the needed skilled flyers are available whenever they may be needed. That goes for every technical branch of war which cannot be improvised.

INDUSTRIAL REACTION.

We suspect that the Bethlehem Steel corporation plan for refusing steel to contractors and builders in New York and Philadelphia who operate on the closed shop basis is not quite what it appears to be. The closed shop concerns may be glad to be compelled by superior force to open their shops now that labor is plentiful.

But whether we are right in the conjecture or not, the facts disclosed indicate an attitude of some great employers which doesn't promise well for the cause of industrial peace. That is the first interest of the public and of the country. We are entering a serious period, and abuse of power, of which the Bethlehem plan is a flagrant example, is about the worst thing that could happen.

The open shop is theoretically defended on the high grounds of individual liberty. But what becomes of such a defense if a great corporation imposes its will upon its customers to compel them to change their labor policy and organization? Compulsion may exist, but that does not clear the situation from the viewpoint of principle.

What most concerns the country, however, is not a theory, whether sophisticated or sincerely urged, but the general attitude and policy of employers toward the organization of labor. If employers propose to take advantage of business depression and labor surplus to destroy labor organization they will give to radicalism an impetus which it has not lost in this country. The notion that in an age of combination the employer will not combine, that capital can get back to the unrestricted liberty of a past generation, is grotesque. It cannot be accomplished, and it ought not to be.

There is no blinking the abuses of organized labor. Like every other force in our competitive system, labor combination needs checks and balances. Graft, extortion, violence, policies of unfair restriction which are an economic waste must be combated, just as the evils of democratic policies have to be combated. But autocracy recently rampant in certain labor circles cannot be successfully fought by autocracy on the employer's side.

We are now in a mood of reaction. It should not blind us to sound principles of progress or to the general and inevitable current of human tendency. If employers are wise they will not allow their sense of the abuses from which they suffered during the war period to tempt them to imitation and reprisal. They will look beyond conditions which, while they give them advantage at this time, are not permanent, and they will make use of the present opportunity to help correct evils without creating new ones.

Responsible trade unionism was during the war, and usually is, a bulwark against destructive radicalism. It cannot be "emasculated" without injury to American industry. It does not solve all the problems of labor relations. Other forms of labor representation and action are being evolved which in time may replace or regulate its operations. But that will take time and, above everything else, the fostering of the right spirit on both sides of the controversy. A merely destructive attack upon unionism will destroy that spirit. Certainly with unemployment and its sufferings in view any sensible consideration of the principles of industrial and social peace will emphasize the wisdom of moderation. Managers of great aggregations of capital should be leaders of sound and far-sighted policy. Some of them, happily, are. Others seem to be unaware of the great human forces with which they are dealing.

GETTING OUR SHARE.

An England one of the great textile factories is working at capacity turning out goods for the Russian market.

In New England textile factories are shutting down or working part time.

Our industry may not produce textiles of the grade and kind wanted by the Russians, but it may be profitable to consider the necessity of entering the Russian field. The British have been at work for some time in that direction. We have passed the stage when we can afford to be indifferent to our foreign commerce or to competition in the world markets. We must get rid of our large surplus or contract our industry drastically. Will our statesmen ponder this truth?

Editorial of the Day

BRINGING IN THE CORN CROP.

(From the Omaha Bee.)

From the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture comes the cheering announcement that only one-third and one-fourth of the corn crop of the state still is in the field. The further news is that farmers are paying from 7 to 9 cents a bushel to huskers. No indication here of a purpose to neglect the crop on account of falling prices. The price of a 250,000,000 bushel crop has been garnered, but that is considerably more corn than Nebraska raised in 1919 in the entire state. If the minimum wage paid huskers is 7 cents a bushel, it means that already the farmers have paid out nearly $12,000,000 to the men who have helped to gather the crop. And the men who get 7 cents a bushel with his board and lodging for husking corn is being well paid. If it is his work, but the strong and active men who engage in it took on seventy-five bushels as a light day's work, and frequently put more than a hundred to their credit. Nebraska's corn crop is not to be wasted, and the huskers are not being deprived of a reasonable return for the hard work they are putting in. A knowledge of these facts may comfort some who have been dolorously lamenting the situation.

ALTHOUGH our interest in German literature is at low tide, we hope the third volume of Bismarck's memoirs will be printed. Third volumes seem subject to delays and postponements. Two other memoirs which are hanging fire are William Hickey's and Margot Asquith's.

BY the way, Bismarck had a solution of the Irish problem which may have been forgotten. He proposed that the Irish and the Dutch exchange countries. The Dutch, he said, would make a garden of Ireland. "And the Irish?" he was asked. "Oh," he replied, "the Irish would neglect the dikes."

And There Are Few Teachers.
Sir: At a dinner of the Traffic Club one of the speakers accounted for the system by which landlords raise rents. They multiply the number of rooms in the apartment by the age of the janitor. WHEN Bryan and Reed sat down with the Sage of Marion to consider the larger problems, certain stars must have shot madly from their spheres to listen.

For Filipino Freedom.

London, Dec. 18.—The House of Lords today passed unanimous resolutions to be forwarded to the President of the United States, condemning the autocratic attitude and unspeakable atrocities committed upon the Filipino people by the government's hired slaughterers, the Philippine police. A self-appointed committee consisting of Horatio Bottomley, Arthur Griffith, Father O'Flanagan, and Mrs. Peckwith Campbell has demanded passage to proceed at once to America and the Philippines to conduct an investigation. Following the harrowing stories of the Manila mustard pot, in which eleven innocent persons were dragged from their houses and strangled in cars patrolled by the streets, the City Council of Liverpool urged British interference in the name of civilization.

President Hiel Hunter, of the Philippine Republic, was greeted by ten thousand persons when he arrived in London today to solicit funds for his country. "We have not been a part of the American Empire since 1916," he said, "and all their murder and pillage will not bring us back. Many prominent American conservatives including Mayor Thompson, Miss Jane Addams, Frederick Howe, the Hon. E. V. Debs, will assist us in obtaining our freedom." His remarks were greeted with shouts of "To hell with the United States!" "By no means," he said, "we are not going to let the United States make in America." and the burning of several American flags.

We infer from the reviews of John Burroughs' "Acceptance of the Universe" that John Burroughs is a man of great power. We are not sure, but we accept it. One might as well. With the reservation that acceptance does not imply approval.

Sir: May I ask if you intend to satisfy our curiosity about the author whose first editions you are collecting? My curiosity would be George Moore. Huneker's choice probably would be Henry James, he quotes him so often in Steeplejack.

TO AN ATHLETE DYING YOUNG.

The time you won your town the race
We chaired you through the market-place;
Man and boy stood cheering by,
And home we brought you shoulder-high.

Today, the road all runners come,
Shoulder-high we bring you home,
And set you at your threshold down,
Townsmen of a stiller town.

Smart lad, to slip betimes away
From fields where glory does not stay,
And early though the laurel grows
It withers quicker than the rose.

Eyes the shady night has shut
Cannot see the record cut,
And silence sounds no worse than cheers
After earth has stopped the ears:

Now you will not swell the rout
Of lads that wore their honours out,
Runners whom renown outran
And the name died before the man.

So set, before its echoes fade,
The fleet foot to its little shade,
And hoid to the low lintel up,
The still-defended challenge cup.

And round that early-laurelled head
Will our remembrance of you be
And find unwithered on our curls
The garland brier that a girl's.

TURNING BACK THE CLOCK.

RECENTLY Dr. S. Voronoff of the College of France visited several cities in this country speaking on means of restoring vital energy and prolonging life. The subject excited a good deal of interest because almost every person over 60 years of age and many who are younger are eager to know how to restore vital energy and prolong life.

Dr. Voronoff's views have been put into a book entitled "Life" and I have gone through this carefully looking for something of public interest generally would be interested in. Voronoff quotes Metchnikoff as saying low forms of animals, certain of the single cell varieties, have eternal life or at least live until they are killed off by other living beings.

The lower an animal in the scale of life the longer it lives relatively. Flourens and Buffon said that an animal should live to an age six or seven times the number of years required for that animal to become a complete adult. The highest form of life does not attain this longevity; the lower forms live beyond it. Voronoff figures that in this basis man should be able to reach 140 years.

In the tissues of man there are highly developed cells which do the special work of the different organs and lowly developed interstitial cells which remain on the primitive level. In old age these low cells overgrow and kill off the higher cells. The process of senility is one of return of the body to a low level, a plane on which life might be greatly prolonged, a condition not possible with the rapid burning pace of younger years.

The thyroid gland is a ductless gland with many functions, one of which is to retard the development of the connective tissue which overgrows and kills off other cells. When the thyroid ages these cells overdevelop and presently they are short and fat. Since all the ductless glands are hooked up in one combination, it would be well to have a word or two as to each.

The parathyroid regulate the activity of nerve cells. The suprarenal glands maintain the tone of the blood vessels and the distribution of the blood throughout the body. The pituitary gland is divided into two parts. The secretion of the front part determines whether the body will grow short and fat or tall and thin. The secretion of the back part stimulates the production of milk and at urine and governs the muscles of the organs.

When the pineal gland of a youth is diseased the changes of puberty and adolescence do not work out in the usual way. The gonads or sex glands in addition to propagating the species produce an internal secretion absorbed directly into the blood which profoundly affects the body.

1 TRUCK, 4 AUTOS, 21 RIDERS CRASH; JUST 1 HEADACHE

Odd Series of Accidents Ends with None Hurt.

Automobile Killings in Chicago in 1920, 548

A motor truck—
Four automobiles—
Twenty-one persons—figured in an odd series of automobile accidents at Forty-third street and Grand boulevard shortly after midnight yesterday.

The elapsed time was fourteen minutes and the casualties were—None!

The show started at 12:33 Sunday morning. An automobile owned by A.
A. Whiting, 1147 Hyde Park boulevard, was driven up to the curb filling station of the Lakeside garage by Miss Mary Whiting, his daughter. In the car were Miss Helen O'Neill, 5140 Kenwood avenue, Ray Huntsberger, 4901 Prairie avenue, and a Mr. Hedgecock.

Accident No. 1: Nobody Hurt.
Huntsberger was adding Nick Olszewski, 3547 South Hermitage avenue, the right watchman, to fill the tank
when Arthur Ahern, 6110 South Park avenue, with six friends, drove up in a big touring car.

Ahern ran into the front wheel of the Whiting car and his machine turned over and rested on its side. None of the occupants suffered more than minor scratches. The impact shunted the Whiting automobile back into a tree, bowling over Huntsberger and Olszewski. They were more scared than hurt.

A crowd gathered. A Cadillac car drove by and knocked down a young man looking at the wrecked cars. He got up, limping a little.

A Henry Meets Disaster.
By this time a wrecking truck owned by J. W. Beamer & Co., 6039 Prairie avenue, had arrived to take away Ahern's car. As it started to leave, a Henry came along, driven by Joseph Smith, 9407 St. Lawrence avenue, and filled with five other musicians.

Mr. Smith slammed into the truck and the Henry's nose caved in, spilling water, grease and oil over the street as

Some measure of Christmas joy was brought to the eighty-four stricken soldiers in the county tuberculosis sanitarium at Oak Forest yesterday when eighteen members of Englewood post, American Legion, carried them all sorts of good things to eat and smoke.
Morris & Co. loaned an automobile truck and Nicholas Papovich, M. S.
Tait, John P. Shaunessey, P. Seigle,

it expired. Again, nobody hurt.
After all this Miss O'Neill complained of a headache. She was the only sufferer physically.

DEATHS IN 2 YEARS

With the death yesterday of 5 year old John Griffin, 1267 Oregon avenue, who was run down by an automobile truck on Dec. 9, fatalities due to automobile and motorcycle accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, reached a total of 548. This is 124 more deaths than occurred in 1919, the highest previous year.

On Saturday THE TRIBUNE in its automobile death box, stated that the automobile deaths in Chicago in 1920 amounted to 565.

The figures were obtained from the coroner's office, where the fiscal year dates from Dec. 1. Through a misunderstanding of how the records were kept, the figures for Dec. 1919, were included in THE TRIBUNE's 1920 totals.

TRADE CHAMBER GIVES VIEWS ON TAX REVISION

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Repeal of the excess profits tax and as substitutes therefor an increase in certain income taxes and the imposition of new excise taxes on articles
"of wide use but not of first necessity," are recommended in a report of the United States chamber of commerce committee on taxation, made public today after nearly a year's study.

A moderate and graduated tax upon undistributed earnings of corporations also is favored.

The committee opposes a sales tax,
but so there may be a full expression of opinion by the 1,400 member organizations embraced in the chamber,
a sales tax is included in the questionnaire to be submitted as a means of determining the final policy of the organization.

While the committee recommends a moderate tax upon undistributed corporation earnings, the method by which Secretary of Treasury Houston and others have proposed to obtain the bulk of the revenue needed to make up for the repeal of the excess profits tax, it holds that it is preferable to get most of it from taxes on incomes.

The committee does not suggest any increase in normal income tax rates.

Other proposals in the questionnaire include:

Payment by individual corporation stockholders of their own normal tax on dividends, the normal tax on which is now collected at the source.

Withdrawal of exemption from future issues of securities of classes which have hitherto had that privilege and are subject to a federal tax.
Exemption of American citizens residing abroad from the American tax upon income derived abroad and not remitted to the United States.

KIDS ARE KIDS AT CHRISTMAS, EVEN IN TROPICAL HAITI

The Story of What a Few Pennies Will Do.

BY EYE WITNESS.

GONAIVES, West Coast of Haiti, Dec. 2.—[By mail.]—You hear at home, and down on this once turbulent west coast we hear, a great deal about the hard deeds of American marines against the Haitian population.

But before you make up your mind on these matters it will be well for you to meet Lieut. O. Poland from Kentucky.

Poland came up from the ranks in the marines and is today a lieutenant in the American commanded gendarmerie d'Haiti. He is charged with the maintenance of good order, public health, highways, conjugal peace and general neighborhood happiness in a community of 25,000 black and yellow people.

Poland acknowledged that he gets discouraged, but he keeps on. He is father and brother and family and civic counselor and military commander to an extremely skittish population which holds liberal views on jarency and is tolerant of concubinage.

Ideal Bandit Country.

Poland's town is the capital of what he told me is "ideal Caco country." It is rugged, with practically no roads leading from it into the wide wooded back country and that back country contains fastnesses impenetrable save to the native bandits, who can negotiate a cactus hedge with as little difficulty as you would experience in crossing an acre of Illinois corn.

Though he gets on well with the natives and loves his black gendarmes, Poland has no illusions about native character as it expresses itself in Cacoism, a form of aspiration which, if you consider it sentimentally, is a struggle for liberty, but which in its practical aspects reduces itself to banditry and rapine.

Nor is it a valiant kind of banditry, being too often nothing more adventurous than preying upon marketwomen and little boys for their pewter coins, baskets of fruit and their galled donkeys.

How Lieutenant Rules.

To rule the district comprising Gonaives and the area around it Poland and his superior, Capt. Knighton, have under their command, 154 black, American-trained gendarmes, eighty of whom are quartered in the town. To cover this district thoroughly would require two weeks travel by auto and on horseback and in the course of your journey you would encounter—or would have encountered them ten months ago—bandit chiefs who say to their superstitious followers when the flyers appear in the sky, "Don't be afraid of them! They are only bad men who are trying to get nearer their god."

Poland said: "When we took charge of this town of Gonaives it was plague, dirt, mud and corruption—and a revolution every six months."

Now the pigs are decently herded outside the town. Dirt is banished. Hidden corruption, the curse of the tropics, is not festering in corners. The new open market, built by direction of Poland's superiors and under his immediate supervision, is dry, clean, spacious, well-arranged, and would do credit to any northern city.

Moral Effect Conspicuous.

The moral effect of it is conspicuous.

President Wilson's Future Home

[Copyright: Underwood & Underwood.]

President Wilson will make his home in Washington after March 4, having bought the residence of Henry P. Fairbanks, 2300 S street, N. W., in the fashionable Dupont circle district. The purchase price is understood to have been $150,000. The house was built about three years ago and contains eighteen rooms.

and noteworthy. I observed that it was filled with far more self-respecting looking and better dressed vendors than was the foul, disorderly open market at Cape Haitien, though "the Cape" is the richer place.

The main street of Poland's town is seven blocks long, and was built in six months by marines and native laborers working under Poland's direction. It is thirty-five feet wide and has a one-foot rock foundation on which is laid a one-foot gravel and clay mixture. Over all is a three-inch coral surface. It cost $2,200.

But despite his new market and his paved main street and his scrupulously clean barracks for his gendarmes, and his good relations with the people and the priest, Poland from Kentucky is not satisfied.

He wants many things for Gonaives, and some of those things are so simple that you personally could help him and thousands of his wards by the turn of a hand.

Wants to Help Kids.

He wants some Boy Scout literature on organization, methods of equipment and the like, so that he can organize the Gonaives boys into Boy Scout companies.

He wants to start a baseball nine among the boys and the gendarmes, partly because it might divert the lads from the heathenish joy they derive from torturing animals.

I am sure that a present of some balls, bats and gloves from some good-natured sports in the United States would make this good man happier than a promotion to a captaincy.

Also he wants boxing gloves, and he wants a good hospital for the people and new barracks for the men and a good school. Says he doesn't need a new building for the school, but only enough money to hire school teachers.

Native Teachers Cheap.

Native teachers would do for the present, he said, and they come cheap—nineteen to twenty gourdes a month, and a gourde is 20 cents.

He is doing his grand work in a country where the day they make ice for public sale is almost a festa and where almost every waking breath you draw even around Christmas time is an effort.

The address is: Lieut. O. Poland, Gendarmerie d'Haiti, Gonaives, Haiti.

DRY'S PROTEST PALMER RULING ON HARD CIDER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The Anti-Saloon league will ask Attorney General Palmer to reconsider his ruling that the use of cider in the home by its manufacturer, even after it has become intoxicating by fermentation, is lawful, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the league, announced today. Neither the letter nor the implied purpose of the prohibition act justified such a ruling, Mr. Wheeler asserted.

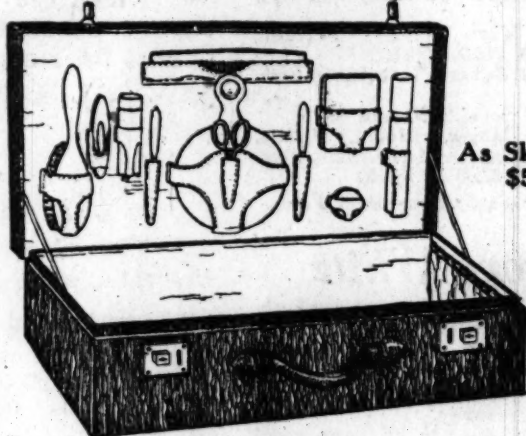

Declaring the eighteenth amendment prohibits the manufacture of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes in the home or elsewhere, Mr. Wheeler said congress in permitting the manufacture of cider and fruit juices for home use fixed the alcoholic standard at one-half of 1 per cent.

The ruling, he added, should be reconsidered, because also congress placed its own rule of construction on the law by saying the act should be construed to prevent the "use of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes."

Clothing Workers Seek $1,000,000 Relief Fund

New York, Dec. 19.—The general executive board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, in special session here today, voted to raise a $1,000,000 relief fund for the 50,000 retail clothing workers in New York who, it is said, are either on strike or "locked out" by their employers.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

The Store of the Christmas SpiritThe CHENEY Phonograph
Is the Most Perfect Music-Reproducing Instrument Made

BEFORE this Store decided to sell the Cheney Phonograph there was a long series of tests and counter-tests, investigations and rejections. It was a search for the perfect Phonograph, as far as we were concerned, for we could afford to set before our customers no less than the best.

We are satisfied that the CHENEY is that perfect Phonograph. It reproduces all recorded music in a manner that justifies our faith in it. It is constructed on unquestioned principles. It is a musical instrument, rather than a machine.

And let us show you here, in a few briefly outlined points, some of the exclusive features that make the CHENEY a leader in its field:

Cheney Tone Control
Is Unique, Effective and True

THE CHENEY is the only Phonograph that controls tone at the source. Instead of muffling the tone—controlling your hearing of it—the Cheney controls the production of tone as a singer modulates his voice, or a violinist varies the quality and volume of his music with finger and bow.

This is accomplished by three different positions of the needle-adjuster. This adjustment can be used on each of four needles, and each needle is of a different weight, designed for a different character of tone.

Twelve separate volumes of tone are thus possible with any one record—ranging from the most delicate pianissimo to the most impressive orchestral effects.

Cheney tone control is logical; it is musically and scientifically sound and true. Every tone, however reduced or amplified, comes to your ear clear, pure and unmuffled.

Violin Resonator
Makes Cheney Music Live

THE Violin Resonator, made of spruce wood, seasoned and shaped with the care Stradivarius would give to a master's violin, is responsible for the full, rich quality of the Cheney tone. It hangs free from the walls of the cabinet, and vibrates with every note that passes through it, giving full and perfect expression to every tone and overtone.

The Resonator has the same chance to become musically seasoned that a cello or a violin has—instead of the cello's peg or the violinist's shoulder rest, there is a small wooden support which bears the whole weight of the Resonator and yet allows it to vibrate at will.

It is the Resonator, becoming year after year more mellow, just as a violin does, that enables us to say of the Cheney—"The longer you play it, the sweeter it grows."

The Cheney Period Design Cabinets

AUTHENTIC designing, done by men of high rank in their profession, drawing on the proudest traditions and finest work furniture history has known, has provided in the Cheney Cabinets a most impressive series of fine pieces.

Their lines are true and graceful, fit to grace the most beautiful rooms of our finest homes.

The cabinet work is of the highest order, every little detail of construction being carefully executed. It is done by some of the most expert craftsmen in America.

In other words, every effort has been made to keep the outer appearance of the Cheney Instrument on a par with its musical superiority. The Cheney Cabinets are works of art in every way, and fitted to grace the most impressive settings.

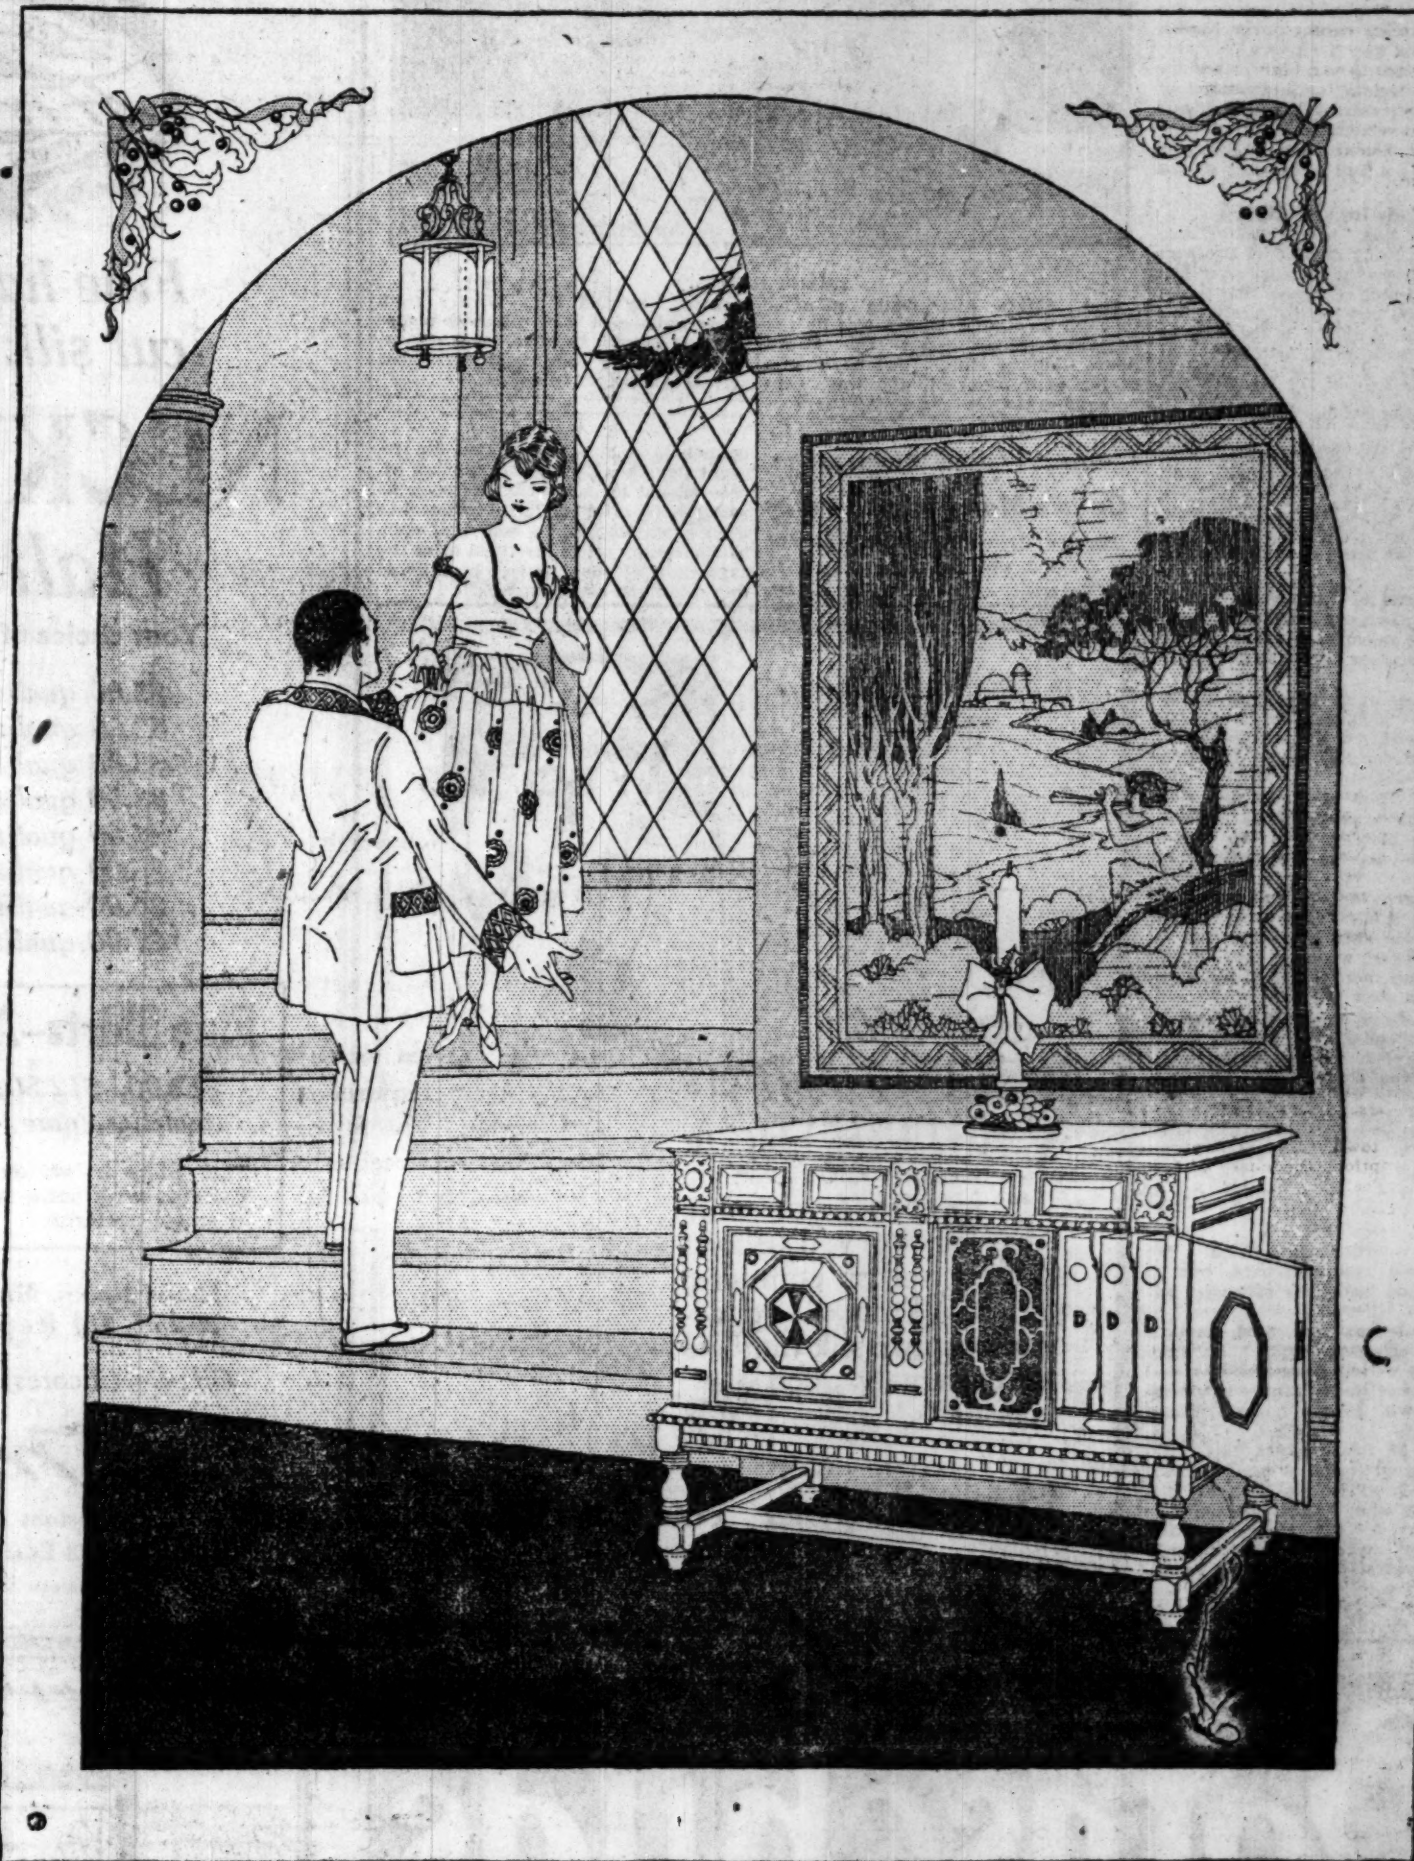

Other Points of Cheney Superiority

THE Breechloading Needle Device of the Cheney does away with punctured fingers and aimless "poking." Merely place the Reproducer on the adjuster, drop in the needle and turn the screw. A simple thing, a small point—but it shows that care and thought have gone into the task of producing an instrument that shall be as nearly perfect as is humanly possible.

The Cheney Plays All Records—for it is equipped with two Reproducers, arranged for all types of needles and records. The Cheney Reproducer has a diaphragm unusually flexible and the needle-arm is so sensitive that it searches out the tiny vibrations which constitute the "overtone," the real beauty of any production. The greatest advancement of the Cheney Reproducer is its perfect articulation, and its capacity for transmitting only perfect tones.

The Cheney Acoustic Throat and Orchestral Chambers have their own distinctive parts to play in the control and direction of perfect sounds to the resonator. It is enough to say that they form important links in the chain from the record to the ear of the listener, a chain which is carefully built up in every part by the Cheney's peculiarly efficient design.

STORES REPORT GOOD TRADE IN USEFUL GIFTS

Managers Pleased with Holiday Business.

Department store managers agreed yesterday that Chicago Christmas shoppers, setting a new record in buyers, have delivered a body blow to "general business depression."

Executives of State street stores report that receipts have exceeded those of the spendthrift orgy of last Christmas season, with the difference that the purchases are almost exclusively useful gifts, and buyers are exercising care to get full value for their money. Luxuries and non-essentials are suffering, but wearing apparel, furs, household articles are in demand to an extent never known before.

Also merchants say high prices are no longer accepted as indications of quality. Buyers are aware there have been marked reductions in prices, and they take sufficient time "shopping around" to get full advantage of the cuts.

Price Cuts Increase Buying.
"Business has been remarkably good," D. F. Kelly of Mandel Brothers said. "It shows an increase over last year. The people recognize that prices are down, and are buying freely. We find the demand chiefly for wearing apparel and substantial articles."

D. M. Yates, manager of Marshall Field's retail store, said his firm has had the largest holiday business in its history.

"Thanks to the newspaper advertising and news articles, people start their buying early in the day," he said. "This gives them time to deliberate over their purchases. More useful articles are being bought than ever before."

Ahead of Last Year.
Edward J. Lehmann of the Fair said sales in all departments are going ahead of last year except in the ready-to-wear.

"I can see little difference in the nature of the purchases from last year," he said. "I see no decrease in the demand for the usual Christmas gifts."

Henry G. Hart of the Boston store reported the largest holiday trade in the store's history, with the biggest single day's business ever recorded for Saturday.

"Sales are largely in useful articles," he said. "This was demonstrated in our shirt sale Saturday. It was the largest we ever had. People are spending money freely, but more wisely than ever before."

Better Than Any Other Year.
John H. Wood of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., said the holiday trade promises to exceed that of any previous Christmas.

"Business has been very satisfactory," he said. "I have noticed buyers seem a little more inclined toward the practical than usual. They take more time in making selections. Even in luxuries trade is remarkably good."

George Lytton of the Hub reports that warm weather has held back the sale of suits and overcoats, but in holiday goods trade has exceeded last year's.

"Our trade has been good, particularly in Christmas stuffs," he said. "Last week we had a big business, and if this cold weather continues this coming week will be much larger than last year."

Emanuel M. Rosenthal of Rothschild & Co., declared business conditions all around are much better than in 1919. "Everybody knows that business has taken a turn for the better," he said. "People are exercising more care in their purchases, but they are spending more freely than they did last year. There seems to be a wave of useful gift buying."

Jack Frost's Christmas Tree

Red lights and white glimmer through an icy Christmas tree on the boulevard which passes the South Shore Country club. It stands in the center of a fountain, and was constructed by Old Man Winter from many gallons of H₂O. It was placed there, it is said, in honor of St. Claus, well known toy manufacturer, whose arrival is expected this week.

Gomez Would Suspend Cuba's Moratorium Decree

Havana, Dec. 18.—Gomez, who was the Liberal presidential candidate in the November elections, expressed the opinion in a statement given out tonight that the existing moratorium decree should be suspended as soon as possible, or after sufficient notice has been given the public, and that such banks as may prove insolvent after the expiration of such notices be allowed to "suffer the consequences."

CAPTAIN TRIED AS THIEF SAYS HE'S A KLEPTOMANIAC

New York, Dec. 18.—John I. Willers, former captain of the 48th infantry, being tried by court martial at Governors Island for desertion and the theft of more than $2,000 of his company's fund, today, after being declared mentally competent at the time of the alleged theft and desertion by a board of medical officers, took the witness stand in his own defense.

Willers testified he was born in the province of Holstein, Germany, in 1891, and from the age of 10 years he had a tendency toward kleptomania. When he was 14, he testified, he ran away from home, and, as a consequence, his family sent him to the United States in 1906.

Willers said he enlisted in the United States army while stranded in Albany, N. Y.

The wife of the accused officer declared she met Willers in Chicago in June, 1919, and the following September they were married. She recounted the alleged irresponsibility of her husband in business affairs. She refused to divulge the name Willers used when they applied for their marriage license.

At the time of Willers' arrest the police reported he made a confession stating that he was detailed to the United States in 1917 by German military authorities to act as a spy in gathering data pertaining to the organization of the American army.

Santa Claus Weeps as Stock of Sleds Burns Up

Bradford, Pa., Dec. 18.—Santa Claus received a sad blow here today when officials of the Safety Sled company announced that 4,000 sleds for the holiday trade were destroyed in the fire which swept their plant at Mount Jewett last night.

THE RETURNS ON THIS ELECTION ARE DELAYED

Vote Judges Face Guns and Lose Ballots.

Indications are the returns of the Newspaper Wagon Drivers' election won't be in for a long, long time. Hence a problem in delicacy confronts John Flanagan and Barney Logan, opposing candidates for secretary-treasurer. Should Mr. Flanagan hasten to Mr. Logan with glad congratulations, or should Mr. Logan beamingly acclaim Mr. Flanagan the hustling victor?

The returns were in the ballot box of Local 706, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stevedores and Helpers of America, fourth floor, 106 West Washington street. But they went out early Sunday morning, and their whereabouts now constitute a mystery. As a consequence the who's who of officers is all guess.

Among others there were three judges for president and three for business agent. But the stellar contest was between Mr. Flanagan and Mr. Logan, incumbent. The salary is $47.50 a week, with cigar and soda money.

Guns Halt the Count.
Some 200 votes were cast. Counting began late Saturday night and progressed auspiciously until the judges started to announce who was in the lead.

They desisted abruptly. For they were gazing into the muzzles of a hundred or more pieces of hip pocket artillery in the hands of persons they had hitherto considered mere bystanders. "All you! Stick 'em up or we'll feed you lead," commanded a swarthy gentleman, who is said to hail from New York.

Seize the Ballot Box.
Among the sixty who obeyed were William Neer, president of the Teamsters' executive council; Steve Sumner, business agent for the Milk Drivers' union; and Margie Devries, business agent for the Bread Wagon Drivers' union. They were present as guests of Mr. Logan and guardians of his interests.

A war correspondent, who was also lined up, said the gunmen worked with clocklike precision. While the judges of election and others were faced against the wall, a squad seized the ballot box. About this time Samuel Brown, elevator operator, arrived at the fourth floor. He lost control of the car and it dropped two stories until the emergency clutch caught.

After seizing the ballot box, the gunmen walked downstairs to the curb, where a flotilla of automobiles were waiting with engines running. All hopped in and the automobiles sped away.

The police were not notified. It was announced that the election would be protested to the International Brotherhood as illegal and a request made for another one, when special guards will be on duty.

AIDED FARM LIFE

Banker and Good Roads Booster, "Father" of the County Agent Plan, Is Called by Death.

BENJAMIN F. HARRIS.

FOUND DEAD BY HIS SON.
Mrs. Catherine Fox, 60 years old, was found dead yesterday in a gas-filled room at 5004 South Wells street, by her son, Edward Fox, who had gone there to visit her. She was sitting in a chair in a room.

Fox said he believed death was accidental.

ILLINOIS BANKER AND BOOSTER OF FARM LIFE DIES

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 19.—Benjamin F. Harris, well known throughout Illinois as a banker and farmer, died at his home today after an illness extending over four months.

Mr. Harris formerly was president of the Illinois Bankers' association, and instituted the campaign to bring all Illinois banks under state or federal supervision.

Mr. Harris founded and edited the Banker-Farmer, and was known as the "father" of the county agent movement, which brought agricultural advisers to every county.

He inaugurated the good roads campaign in Illinois, and gave this movement his active support until his death. Mr. Harris formerly owned the Urbana and Champaign Railway, Gas and Electric company, but some years ago disposed of his interests to William B. McKinley.

He was president of the First National Bank of Commerce, served on the state council of defense during the war, and was chairman of various committees of the United States chamber of commerce.

He was 52 years old and is survived by his widow and four children. Funeral services will be held here Wednesday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal church.

MINISTER CALLS "BLUE SUNDAY" LAWS FANATICAL

Pastor Says Church Must Progress.

Agitation for Sunday "blue laws" was assailed yesterday in a sermon by the Rev. Hugh Robert Orr, pastor of the All Souls' Unitarian Church, Evanston. He termed attempts to curb Sunday amusements as "blind fanaticism."

"I cannot see the evil of healthful sports and decent theaters on Sunday," he declared. "They are in reality minor issues, after all, and are not worthy of attack."

Factors in reform who advocate measures restricting healthful pastime are a burden rather than an asset to church progress and Christian leadership, Joyless suggestions and strict demands on the personal conduct of others do not reflect the spirit of our present age.

"Our church has lost its leadership because it chose to cling to worn-out creeds. Instead of keeping pace with progress, it cannot save itself now by going back into the centuries and re-establishing the Puritanical Sabbath. That is but blind fanaticism."

The majority of the American people are outside the church. They cannot be brought back through coercion by a minority.

"The religion of humanity has left the religion of the church far behind. If the church is to live and serve the future it must break loose from medieval bondage and again lead in intellectual, moral and social progress. Arbitrary dictums of personal conduct must give way to intelligent understanding of humanity and social needs. This cannot be obtained through repressive measures."

A. J. Davis, secretary of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, attempted yesterday to answer charges by Frank O. Miller that the league's purposes are selfish and un-American. His countercharges were questioned publicly by Frank H. McCulloch and Prof. F. O. Ray.

The Pickwickians at Dingley Dell

NO PICTURE of the old-fashioned Christmas surpasses the one painted by Dickens of Snodgrass, Tupman, and Winkle—the mighty sportsman—and the ladies, enjoying to the full the blessings of Yuletide, while Sam Weller and the Fat Boy supply the feast of comedy. The plump goose, the steaming pudding, the lavish trimmings—these, with the merriment and rejoicing, linger fragrantly in memory. This is the Christmas cheer we strive to attain today.

Books for Christmas Giving

Most Books and many Book Sets fall below the $10 mark.
As an inexpensive gift—yet one whose memory outlasts that of many more lavish in character—a Book fills a peculiarly welcome niche.
Books are always welcome, always appropriate. They can go to a new acquaintance or to an old friend; to associates or to the family. They are good for either sex—for young or old. They can be selected to meet any degree of intellect or taste.
Our Book Section is equipped to supply any requirement. Everything is grouped for easy examination and selection. There are helpful counsel and guidance when desired.
In the field of Children's Books the service of the Book Section is surpassing.

Shop before Noon

INASMUCH as our December business is proving the greatest in our history, without doubt the days between now and Christmas will be the busiest days we have ever experienced. We are doing everything possible to maintain our standard of service, but we wish to especially emphasize the comfort and convenience of early shopping.

$50 WINNER ONE OF MANY POLITE EMPLOYEES OF 'I'

Hard to Pick Best, They're All So Courteous.

Only an unusually gracious man could have won The Tribune's daily politeness prize yesterday, because the people the politeness reporter encountered were exceedingly civil and courteous, every one of them. But the search finally ended with the $50 descended upon Marcellus F. Simpson, 5746 Lowe avenue, a conductor on the elevated railway.

Early in the day the reporter decided to seek politeness among employees of the overhead railroad. The quest soon became a contest. Each and every guard, ticket agent, or conductor was a contender.

The Follies Is a Great Show—But

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

THE sensational ceremonial of Mr. Ziegfeld's yearly carnival of picture, flesh and buoyancy were duly celebrated last evening at the Colonial, making life worth while thereby, to the many persons who were present. The women were as cold and handsome, the background as voluptuous as the music was tiny, and the clowning as efficacious as always. The habit of the "Follies," and the display was full of reasons for saying that nothing speedier nor more beautiful has come from Mr. Ziegfeld's carnal laboratories.

It was a lovely gathering of fabric and color and of young women, whose physical charms were influential in the aid of them. Miss Fanny Brice also was there, intelligently ridiculous, as were Mr. Carl Randall, a fine dancer; Mr. W. C. Field, a reluctant comedian; Miss Ray Dooley, the enfant terrible of burlesque; Miss Mary Eaton, who sang and danced and looked very well; Van and Schenck, who know best how to coo the cheek songs; Mr. John Steel, who drips the barren ballads with the aromatic hyssop of his vocalization; and a lot of others, as good, no doubt, if not better. Vaudeville, imposed dextrously, if not deftly, upon the golden text that Male and Female created He; and that the average human eye is susceptible to white hips and gleaming eyes, in Mr. Ziegfeld's system, and he is the master of all the shrewd and frivolous showmen.

The revue is animated, picturesque, and extravagant—a blend of the sophisticated and the adolescent. There are moments in which it seems to be as old as Antioch, fabulously followed by incidents which appear in their naive gestures to the primitive virtues of Manitowoc or Bird Center. Mr. Ziegfeld is a jovial and an artistic spendthrift. He does his job better than any one else does it. But in one episode of the Follies I wish he would not do it so well.

Mr. Ziegfeld's "Follies," being as they should be a National Institution, are entrenched enough in popular favor to be able to disregard the suspected appetite of the public for cheap fifth. However, there is one scene in "The Follies" which, participated in

WATER PISTOL BARES HEART OF DESERTING GOB

Tried to Take Wife Home for Christmas.

There was a sinister, determined gleam in the eye of the tall youth who stood against the bar in a west side saloon last night, with cap drawn well down over his eyes and his hands thrust into his pockets.

"Better question that man," Lieut. William Shoemaker directed, and Detective Sergeant William Carter, Joseph Ronan and Patrick O'Neil, who had entered the bar with him to look for bandit suspects, stepped to the tall youth's side.

"Flash Lamp and Pistol," "Stand still," Ronan ordered, "and keep your hands away from your pockets."

"Honest, mister," the tall youth protested, "I didn't do nothing."

Evidently you weren't planning anything, either," said Ronan, as he brought to light an electric flash lamp and a pistol.

There was something curious about the pistol. It seemed rather small. He examined it more closely and laughed.

"Holdup man!" he scoffed. "Look at this, lieutenant!"

Only a Water Pistol. And he held up to the other policeman's inspection—a water pistol!

The tall youth began to weep. "I guess I look pretty foolish to you," he said. "But, honest, I couldn't help it. I'm a soldier, or I was until I took off my uniform. I guess I'm a deserter now, and headed for some naval prison."

"Anyway, I was married less than a year ago. My wife's folks live in Portland. She wanted to see them for Christmas."

"A sailor's pay, won't do it. My wife had been employed by an officer in the hospital service, but became too ill to work."

"Chose the Wrong Way." His wife was sent for. When she saw him in custody she fainted.

"You'll get home some way, girlie," he said. "I'll guess I chose the wrong way."

"It's too bad," she said. "I wanted to go so much, but not so badly as that. I'll see you through."

The sailor proved to be Nelson Hazeltine, an aviator student at Great Lakes. He will be sent to the training station today where naval authorities will handle his case. He is 24 years old, and served with the 40th division of the army in France.

WAR ON TRAFFIC IN DOPE ORDERED BY FITZMORRIS

A campaign to stamp out drug and dope traffic in Chicago was ordered yesterday by Chief of Police Charles C. Fitzmorris.

Hereafter, according to the order, every person suspected of being under the influence of drugs will be immediately arrested and will be grilled in an effort to ascertain the source of the stimulant.

CHICAGO WOMEN GET $200,000 OF COLE ESTATE

The contest over the will of the late Mrs. Margaret C. Cole, widow of the late W. W. Cole, a famous showman, awarding the bulk of the $1,000,000 estate to Dr. Freeman F. Ward, and which has been pending in the Surrogate's court in New York for several months, has been withdrawn.

Terms of the withdrawal are said to award $200,000 to be divided between three Chicago women who were among the five contesting relatives. They are Mrs. Ella L. Riley and Mrs. Esther Hamill, nieces of Mrs. Cole, and Margaret Riley, Mrs. Riley's daughter. They were represented by Attorney Clarence S. Darrow.

Further than to say that there has been a settlement which warrants the withdrawal of the petition to set aside the will, I cannot comment," Mr. Darrow said yesterday.

The petition demanded that Dr. Ward, who is a New York physician, should make a detailed accounting of his management of the estate. The petitioners also charged that he had exerted a "hypnotic influence" over Mrs. Cole before her death, which induced her to name him as her beneficiary after $1,000,000 had been bequeathed to each of her brothers and sisters, and $20,000 had been administered as a trust fund for one sister, Nancy Silfe of Vincennes, Ind.

Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Hamill claimed as their share the portion of the estate which would have been awarded to them as nieces had there been no will.

Two 15 Year Old Boys Confess to 20 Holdups

The arrest Thursday night of Anton Smigol and Walter Gibson, both 15 years old, and living at 3311 East Eighty-fifth street, who have confessed to twenty holdups and been identified by ten of their victims, is expected by the Grand Crossing police to clear up nearly 100 robberies. The boys were identified by Leo Seeley, 2332 East Seventy-seventh street; R. H. Hemphill, 7847 Cregier avenue; William Moon, 1439 East Sixty-seventh street, and others.

Brother of Supposed Gang Leader Arrested

Clarence Asey, brother of Alfred Asey, believed by the police to be the leader of a band of thieves which has been working night and day in the western suburbs, was arrested in Melrose Park yesterday, charged with the theft of an automobile. Alfred Asey was arrested Thursday by Chief of Police Frank W. Laatz of River Forest, after it is said, the chief had forced an entrance into the home of Austin Hurlbutt, 101 Broadway, Melrose Park. A warrant for the arrest of Chief Laatz was issued later at the request of Hurlbutt, who charged that Laatz had taken jewelry, money, and clothing while searching the house for evidence against Asey.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

SHOPPER WHO LOST MEMORY IS IDENTIFIED

The woman who became a victim of amnesia after being jostled in a crowd in a State street department store Saturday was identified in the county hospital yesterday as Mrs. Georgiana K. Fox, wife of Jonas Fox, 492 Oakwood boulevard. She was identified by her husband, who called at the hospital when his wife failed to return from a shopping tour.

Mrs. Fox recognized her husband instantly, but even then was unable to recall his name.

According to Dr. Karl Meyer, the loss of memory was the result of a nervous shock. An examination showed no injuries had been sustained by Mrs. Fox.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In the issue of Dec. 18, in recounting the arrest of three suspects following the shooting affray last Thursday night at Clark and Randolph streets, THE TRIBUNE said that the men had been picked up in a drug store at Ogden avenue and Polk street. Charles De Rosa, druggist at this corner, declares no one was arrested in his store. Two of the suspects in question were arrested in West Roosevelt street.

THE TRIBUNE on Dec. 14 stated that Andrew Skaleas, an alleged fugitive from justice, was arrested in a house at 740 South Green street. W. Combs, who resides at that address, denies the arrest was made there or that he knows anything of the case. Skaleas was arrested on the street near that address.

SOBBING DAMSEL LURES SIX BRAVE KNIGHTS INTO DEN

There Her Male Pals Nick Them for Their Rolls.

Tuesday's festive spirit being rampant, Michael Zacks gladly assumed the role of Good Samaritan early Sunday morning toward a timid damsel in distress. He was nearing his home at 1423 North La Salle street.

"Sir," she ventured hesitatingly, "I have lost my way. I—I— a shapely tear fell from a lustrous eye. Her poke bonnet was quite neat.

"Don't cry, little girl," and Mr. Zacks, strong manly arm supported the shivering figure. "I will protect you. Where do you wish to go?"

"I want 1423 North La Salle street," she sobbed.

"Why, why! That's just ten doors from here," and Mr. Zacks guided her to the address and assisted her up the stairway to the entrance.

The Lady Pulls a Gun. "And now," she smiled, "you can go inside with me, or I'll fill you full of lead."

A husky revolver prodded Mr. Zacks into complying. She ushered him into a room with a four poster bed. He was received with open arms by two men. They gagged him, bound his arms and legs, then tied him to a bed post. Mr. Zacks gazed about to discover each of the other three post held a man. He yielded $20, a gold watch, and a diamond stickpin.

The lady vanished. Mr. Zacks waited patiently. Pretty soon she reappeared with a fifth stranger, who received a reception, similar to his own. But there were not posts enough to go round, so he was tossed on the bed. A sixth samaritan arrived in a few minutes. He must have completed the night's roundup, because after searching and binding and tossing him on the bed, the two men and the woman disappeared.

Zacks succeeded in loosening the gag. He called for help. The landlady of the rooming house responded. When she comprehended the situation she telephoned the East Chicago avenue police. Detective Sergeants Frank McWilliams, 1849 Lincoln avenue; Alton Schneider, 2225 Lincoln avenue, and Elsie Oldenburg, 3722 Lincoln avenue. Costello identified Bing, but did not know the other men. Miss Oldenburg was not held.

BRONCHO BILLY'S ACTORS STRIKE; NO PAY, NO WORK

When the curtain fell on the first act of the "Follies of 1920" at the Shubert theater in Kansas City, Mo., Saturday night, Joseph Gilles, manager of the theater, appeared before the curtain.

"I regret to inform you that the show is off," he said. "Members of the company have gone on a strike and it will be impossible for us to continue the performance."

Slowly the audience filed out. Backstage a scene that will never be played with a raised curtain was in progress.

"Chorus girls, actors, singers, and musicians, stage hands, and property men crowded around two men.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Anderson, but these people must be paid," said William Keyes, a representative of the Actors' Equity association, who makes Chicago his headquarters. "We had to do it."

"You might have waited until the performance was finished," said George M. Anderson, once famous on the screen as "Broncho Billy."

The argument ended with promises to pay on the part of Mr. Anderson, who owns the show, and promises by the actors to play when paid. Meanwhile, Mr. Keyes announced he had obtained an attachment against the show.

Anderson was once half owner of the Essanay film company, which had its studio on Argyle street, near Broadway. He was reported to be very wealthy. His partner was George K. Spoor of Chicago.

PATROLMAN ON BEAT DROPS DEAD OF HEART DISEASE

Patrolman Mark G. Brinkerhoff, 48 years old, and for thirteen years a member of the department, died suddenly of heart disease while traveling post with his partner, Patrolman William Anersen, early yesterday. Brinkerhoff had pulled the patrol box at Oakley and Chicago avenues at 2 o'clock. He was told of the shooting of Patrolman Timothy O'Connor in the holdup of the Marshall Field barns at Seventeenth street and Vincennes avenue, and to be on watch for five or six men in an automobile.

As they started away he fell into Anersen's arms. He died before reaching the county hospital.

FITZMORRIS TO HEAR JANITOR ROW FACTS TODAY

Details of the wage dispute between the Flat Janitors' union and representatives of the Chicago Real Estate board will be submitted in writing to Chief of Police Charles C. Fitzmorris today.

Chief Fitzmorris was selected to act as the third arbitrator by William Quesse, president of the janitors' union, and James J. Carroll, chairman of the rent-due division of the real estate board, the other two members.

"I am willing to abide by the decision of Chief Fitzmorris," Quesse said yesterday. "I know he will give us a square deal in the present mix-up."

The charge made by Mrs. Emily Natchan that her flat building at 2516 38 North Kedzie avenue was bombed because she refused to comply with a request from the janitors' union to pay a bill of $170 for plaintiffs was declared untrue by Mr. Quesse.

"I never met Mrs. Natchan in my life," he said. "I wouldn't be surprised if some of the real estate agents influenced her to make that statement in an effort to discredit the claims of the janitors' union when they come before Chief Fitzmorris for arbitration."

"Robert Osterberg, one of the business agents, was out to see her one day, but nothing was said about any bill of $170. She had a union janitor working for much less than the scale, without our knowledge of it. Then she discharged him and the under pay proposition was called to our attention."

CITY AND FARM ROMANCE NIPPED BY GIRL'S DADDY

Louis Brittle, 20 years old, 1924 West Van Buren street, went to Albert Antone's farm at Amboy, Ill., determined to become an expert farmer. When he met Antone's 18 year old daughter, Bernice, and the farming stuff was off. He announced to the father that he was going to marry Bernice. Dad went up in the air. Bernice was being trained to be a high school teacher. No city slicker was going to get her. Tears and recriminations.

Yesterday morning Brittle packed the family flivver with suitcases and Bernice and sped to Chicago. The father swore out a warrant for his arrest, charging abduction. The Chicago police found the couple at the Van Buren street address. Bernice safely in the care of the lady. They tried to get a license yesterday, but the mill was closed. Both swore undying affection and determination to get married to day.

But now they are detained by the police. Brittle at the Warren avenue station. Bernice at a detention home.

MISS MARGARET RILEY, DRAWN

Terms of the withdrawal are said to award $200,000 to be divided between three Chicago women who were among the five contesting relatives. They are Mrs. Ella L. Riley and Mrs. Esther Hamill, nieces of Mrs. Cole, and Margaret Riley, Mrs. Riley's daughter. They were represented by Attorney Clarence S. Darrow.

Brother of Supposed Gang Leader Arrested

Clarence Asey, brother of Alfred Asey, believed by the police to be the leader of a band of thieves which has been working night and day in the western suburbs, was arrested in Melrose Park yesterday, charged with the theft of an automobile. Alfred Asey was arrested Thursday by Chief of Police Frank W. Laatz of River Forest, after it is said, the chief had forced an entrance into the home of Austin Hurlbutt, 101 Broadway, Melrose Park. A warrant for the arrest of Chief Laatz was issued later at the request of Hurlbutt, who charged that Laatz had taken jewelry, money, and clothing while searching the house for evidence against Asey.

THE TRIBUNE on Dec. 14 stated that Andrew Skaleas, an alleged fugitive from justice, was arrested in a house at 740 South Green street. W. Combs, who resides at that address, denies the arrest was made there or that he knows anything of the case. Skaleas was arrested on the street near that address.

WAR ON TRAFFIC IN DOPE ORDERED BY FITZMORRIS

A campaign to stamp out drug and dope traffic in Chicago was ordered yesterday by Chief of Police Charles C. Fitzmorris.

Hereafter, according to the order, every person suspected of being under the influence of drugs will be immediately arrested and will be grilled in an effort to ascertain the source of the stimulant.

According to Chief Fitzmorris, a great increase in the use of various drugs has been noticed since prohibition went into effect. Many crimes formerly attributed to the use of liquor can now be traced directly to drug addicts, the chief said.

"Stamp out the dope and we'll go a long way on the trail to a crimeless city," was his comment.

Three men, believed to be dope addicts, dashed into the drug store of C. M. McCord, 200 East Fifty-eighth street, locked McCord and three customers in the basement, and stole $100 in cash, half an ounce of morphine, and a diamond ring. They left in a black touring car. McCord and his patrons were released after passersby had notified the police.

TRAFFIC BOARD URGED TO BUILD SUBWAY AT ONCE

Legal and engineering problems involved in immediate construction of a subway were discussed at a meeting of the mayor's commission on local transportation in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

George W. Jackson, engineer, is said to have urged the immediate construction of a north and south subway in Ashland avenue from Lawrence avenue to Sixty-third street, with a downtown connection in either Madison or Washington streets, as the first unit of a system tapping every population center in the city.

The commission is working on a report which will be made to the mayor for the guidance of the city council and the legislature in working out a solution of the city's traction problem, and recommending Mayor Thompson's campaign pledge of a 5 cent fare.

It is understood the commission will make no recommendations, but will offer the council several plans. These are said to include reports on the building of subways, the use of double decked street cars, the use of monorail elevated trains and several other projects.

The committee conferred with Mr. Jackson on engineering problems concerned in mapping out traction districts. Corporation Counsel Samuel A.

Former Trappist Monk and Bride

MR. AND MRS. JAMES CORNELL BIDDLE.

After living the life of a Trappist monk in a monastery at Gethsemane, Ky., for twenty years, James Cornell Biddle, member of a prominent Philadelphia family, was married to Miss Mary Lena Quinn of Warrenton, Va., at St. Matthew's rectory, Washington, Dec. 15. Mr. Biddle is 62 years old, while his bride is 48. After New Year's the couple will go to Paradise, the bride's colonial homestead, near Warrenton, one of the best known mansions in Virginia. Through his family connections in England Mr. Biddle had the right to the lands and title of Lord Wyville, but he preferred to remain in this country.

Ex-Tobacco King Found Bankrupt for $1,500,000

Leesville, Ky., Dec. 19. (Special.)—With liabilities thought to be approximately $1,500,000, James M. Buckner, said to have been one of the world's largest traders in tobacco, was declared bankrupt in the United States federal court Saturday morning. It is thought that the assets will approximate $1,000,000, as many of the claims are secured. The petition was filed by attorneys, on a claim of the Western Tobacco company, of which Mr. Buckner was president. The claim amounts to $45,000. The company now is operating under control of a receiver.

Yes Sir-ee-ee!

You'll like the food you eat at Weeghman's. Chicago people are getting the first advantage of plans for bigger and better Weeghman restaurants all over the country. Appetizing food at prices that are right—that's what you get where you see the sign

Weeghman

The Sign of Real Food

Real Food for Real People

By CHARLES H. WEEGHMAN

I devote all my time to serving the people better food. I'm trying to help make it easy to live—and to make life worth living. Ask any one who eats at my restaurants.

My food tastes good—and is good for you—

I serve you with real home-tasting food. You can't get the kind of food I serve anywhere else at any price, except right in your own home.

For instance, my buckwheat cakes with pure maple syrup and pork sausage, taste like the kind you used to have on the farm. The sausage is all pork. It touches the spot.

And pastries—they just melt in your mouth. Made of finest flour and rich, wholesome shortening—covered with delicious layers of frosting—sweeter than candy.

It's the same way with everything you get at a Weeghman restaurant. Pure country milk—real coffee with real, rich cream. Everything pure—everything cooked just right. Everything clean and wholesome.

WEEGHMAN NOW HEADS TEN MILLION DOLLAR RESTAURANT COMPANY

Nation-wide Chain of
"Real Food Restaurants" Planned

The new Chas. Weeghman Company, with the well-known Chicago restaurant man at its head and a capitalization of $10,000,000, will extend the Weeghman service to New York, Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis and other large cities. With the new Weeghman restaurants to be opened in Chicago, the total number to be opened under the new plan will be 150 all told.

Big New Commissaries
"One of the first improvements" Mr. Weeghman says, "will be the erection of a new commissary in each city. This system of commissaries will be used not only for the collection and distribution of food, but for its preparation. It will assure our patrons that all food served will be up to the highest standard of purity and palatability."

"By being able to purchase and store foods in large quantities, we will be able to serve better foods for a lower price. This plan will also assure Weeghman patrons of the pick of the market at all times."

"As near as is humanly possible, we serve food that comes from the producer to the consumer directly. That is the reason that it is possible to dine at Weeghman's better for less money."

Weeghman Plan Grows in Favor

"I started the Weeghman plan in Chicago, but visitors from other cities have asked that the plan be extended. Busy men and women everywhere can appreciate the saving of time and money this plan offers. They appreciate that fruit, vegetables, meat and eggs not only cost less, but are better when they are served by the restaurant that buys them at the source, than when they have gathered here and price by going through many profit takers."

Easy on Pocket Books

"Few business men or women want to spend money and time waiting for expensive or elaborate service. For these people Weeghman restaurants fill a long felt want. Here one can have a sustaining, adequate luncheon for 25 cents and be more keen for work than if a dollar had been spent for 20 cents worth of food and 80 cents worth of service."

"Big business men appreciate the savings at Weeghman's just as much as do those who must save, because they are good business men and women, they realize the value of eating at Weeghman's where they know the food is the highest quality and where the price is right. The elaborate restaurant has its place in our social life, but it is no place for a busy man or woman to lunch in. More people are realizing this every day. And it is to fill a great demand that we are extending the sign 'Weeghman's real food' to other cities."

The Convenient Christmas Bookstore

With the hurry and all-too-quickly fleeting time of the next few days, those who give books turn with confidence to this Convenient Bookstore. It is a confidence founded on many a happy past experience—one that will prove justified again this year.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT AND COMPANY

The Star in the East

Nearly two thousand years ago this star guided the Three Wise Men to a lowly manger. Faithfully they followed its light, plodding patiently along the weary miles. Though long was the journey they carried with them gifts of greeting.

This is the origin of the custom of Christmas gifts. The year may have been a hard one, our days may have been crowded, and we may not have been able to keep as closely in touch with our family and friends as we would have liked.

At Christmas, however, from the happy custom of centuries we think of all those whom we love. Moreover, we want them to know that we think of them tenderly. So we endeavor to find gifts which shall express our thought of them and theirs.

Within our shop you will find many gift suggestions that will please you. If you are certain what you want, you will probably find that we have it. If you are uncertain of your selection, perhaps we can aid you to choose the right article.

EACH TRAIN STOP
BRINGS BUCKEYE TEAM GLAD HAND

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—

That the Ohio State eleven, Western conference football champion,

which is speeding

westward to meet

California at Pasadena on New Year's day, is a representative

eleven of the middle west is shown by its record.

During the eight years the Buckeyes have been members of the Big Ten they have won the gridiron

championship

three different years—1916, 1917,

and 1919. In 1919 Ohio was beaten out of the title by Illinois in the closing minutes of the play when Bob Fletcher kicked a field goal.

Coach Wilce has developed some starring players. Chick Harley, half back on last year's team, and Pete

Stinchcomb, star of this season's success, have been chosen unanimously for

All American honors, while Capt. Huffman, Trotter, and Meyers are performers of the first water.

Powerful on Defense.

This year's eleven has been coached to a high point of efficiency in both the open and closed attack. The defense is just as powerful as the offense,

as is shown by the fact that no eleven has scored more than seven points in any one contest.

Unlike most forward passers, Hoge

Workman holds a football like a baseball when he throws it. This player, who has unusually long fingers, grips

the oval with four fingers on the laceing and the thumb on one of the seams.

With the oval held in this manner,

Workman can play longer than the average forward passer. He can jump in the air, dodge, or run backward without danger of dropping the ball from his firm grip.

May Shift Some Players.

Coach Wilce is thinking seriously of starting Blair at half back and Noel

Workman at end in place of Styer.

Blair showed exceptional ability in the Illinois game, while N. Workman played excellent football against Michigan and Illinois. Outside of these changes, the Buckeye mentor will start the same players who faced Illinois in the championship battle, unless sickness overtakes some of the men.

Pete Stinchcomb was the recipient of congratulations all along the line

today. The great little half back slipped a diamond ring on the finger of Anne Jane Summers of Columbus

when the squad was en route to Chicago last Saturday. Miss Summers has seen Pete play all his college games and is making the trip to Pasadena to see him perform for the last time under the scarlet and gray colors of Ohio. The date for the wedding will be announced when the squad returns to Columbus.

Guests at Iowa State College.

The train stopped for nearly two hours this morning at Ames, Ia.,

where the party on the special train was the guest of Buck Cooner, professor of chemistry at Iowa State college, who played tackle on the Ohio team

when the squad was en route to Chicago last Saturday. The party was taken in autos for a trip around the campus and a visit to the university buildings.

Norman (Red) Paine, coach of the Ames football team, and Ned Merriam, who developed the team which won the conference cross country run at Urbana Nov. 20, took part in the reception. Paine and Merriam, who were former Chicago athletes, were just as enthusiastic in the welcome as were the Buckeye supporters.

The team will arrive in Denver tomorrow morning. The party will remain there during the day, and the team will be put through a long signal drill in uniform.

gretfully declining." Columbia was especially desirous of giving Coach Jones

the schedule gave Dartmouth Iowa's open date.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

A black and white illustration of a man wearing a wide-brimmed hat and a bow tie, looking down at a small object in his hand. The style is simple and sketchy, with bold lines and some cross-hatching for shading. The man's face is partially obscured by the hat's shadow. He is wearing a light-colored shirt and a dark bow tie. His right hand is holding a small, dark, rectangular object, possibly a book or a small box. The background is plain white.

Hushed Throng Pays Tribute to Campanini at Memorial Concert

BY RUTH MILLER.

It was a great and hushed throng of people that packed the Auditorium yesterday to pay tribute to the memory of the great Campanini, who died just a year ago. On the yonder side of the footlights were the soloists and the chorus somberly clad, a little subdued, living reverentially of their best, that the memory of this great director general who had done so much for them might not be dimmed too quickly.

When plans for the Campanini memorial concert were yet tentative every artist in the company volunteered his services. Two considerations, so we are told, governed the management in the selection of the program—first, the availability of orchestral arrangements for the vocal numbers in the repertoire for the various artists, and second, the extent to which the artists had been called upon to exert themselves during the current season of opera.

Mrs. Galli-Curci, who had sung in "Lakme" Saturday and is to sing in "Traviata" again tonight, was eliminated on the second count.

The splendors of the Campanini régime are ancient, but immensely interesting operatic history. He was responsible for our introduction to such glittering stars as Mary Garden, Luisa Tetrazzini, John McCormack, Amelita Galli-Curci, Rosa Ponselle, and Titta Rufa.

Under his progressive leadership many new operas received their first American performance. There were "Salome," "Thaïs," "Louise," "Pelleas and Melisande," "The Secret of Suzanne," "The Jew of Malta," "La Chénemane," "Gismonda," and "Nabucco." Surely a record of spectacular accomplishment by a man, canny in his showmanship, shrewd in his artistic judgment, sincere in his craftsmanship, distinguished, and unassuming greatest among the many great gifts bestowed upon him by a benign providence the indefinable and ineluctable charm of personality.

The program of the memorial concert engaged the services of the five conductors of the organization, Marinuzzi, Morini, Cimatti, Smellens, and Santini. And among the singers were Raisa, Johnson, Lamont, Dufranne, Van Gordon, Tito Schipa, Gall, Corelli, and Lazari.

Owing to our usual strenuous Sabbath duties we were able only to hear the aloof splendor of the eighth beauty of France and the Prologue, Mephistopheles of Bolto, but it was enough to know that the black clad singers were giving the finest of their art in memory of the great crusader of music.

AT ORCHESTRA HALL

Joseph Rosenblatt, cantor, was heard at Orchestra hall in a program that required an unusual diversity of vocal gifts. A voice essentially operatic, but veiled interpretatively with ecclesiastical tones, flexibility and power. An uncanny creator of atmosphere in his singing, is this little man. During his own songs, Ystebach and Shomer Fred, both built on oriental intervals, poignant, weird, he conjured up before the Western eyes visions of the hot sunbaked dry streets of Jerusalem and its walling wall.

VICTOR YOUNG CONCERT

Victor Young was doing some excellent violin playing when we reached the Studebaker. He is still possessed of certain violinistic mannerisms that went out of fashion a decade ago, but they no longer interfere quite so much with his music. He plays in spite of them, to speak. A lad with a definite gift, youthful, eager, enthusiastic, and a tone of pleasantness and sweetness, considerable temperament, and a technique that is, for the most part, adequate.

AT KIMBALL HALL

At Kimball hall Marie Meyer Ten Brook, pianist, and Otto Meyer, violinist, were heard for a few fleeting moments. To all seeming they are conscientious, earnest musicians both, sincere in their attitude toward their art and as a working team remarkably well matched.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER. They'll Both Be Surprised

The annual game of "Hiding the Christmas Presents" had begun. Winnie was all a-flutter, when her mother beckoned mysteriously to her from the front parlor, where she was vigorously playing the feather duster. Winnie hurried into the parlor. "I've got Paw's present hid behind the piano," whispered good old mother. "Wanna see it?"

With a warning to be quiet, Maw produced a large box from its hiding place behind the piano. She opened it gingerly and disclosed a many-colored, vari-colored lady's satin kimono.

"There's Paw's Christmas present," chuckled Maw, "How do ye like it?" "It ought to look fine on you," responded Winnie.

Winnie sauntered to the dining room, leaving mother to re-hide her Christmas present to father. A strange noise caused her to turn sharply. There she beheld her father grimacing and gesticulating in an effort to attract her attention. "Want to see Maw's Christmas present?" whispered Paw. "Does a duck like water?" came from Winnie.

Without further ado, her father produced a small package from his pocket. This he opened reverently, and displayed a slightly worn Briar pipe. "Ain't she a pipper?" exclaimed Paw. "That's what I'm givin' yer Maw for Christmas!" "You'll certainly enjoy it, Fathaw," smiled Winnie, and to herself she mused, "Well, that's one way to get what you want for Christmas!"

JANE COWL AND SANTA TO GREET CHILDREN AT TOY CIRCUS TODAY

One hundred and eighty crippled children will be guests of honor this afternoon at the Christmas tree festival and toyland circus.

The show started its second week at the Coliseum yesterday with a crowd all most equal to that of Saturday.

Because of the cold weather the Haven school across the street from the Coliseum, was opened by special order of the board of education, to provide shelter for the waiting children.

Miss Jane Cowl will be present this afternoon as the guest of Mrs. Joseph C. Coleman, and will receive Santa Claus and open the performance.

GRAIN TRADERS ARE MORE MIXED; CORN GETS HELP

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Grain markets have reached a stage where a large part of the unfavorable factors that have been instrumental in depressing values, mainly the poor financial and economic conditions of the world over, are regarded as having been discounted for the time being. This does not mean there should be a return of heavy buying and advanced prices, but a greatly lessened selling pressure and a two-sided market.

Corn is down to the 1913 level and oats nearly there, which means serious losses to the farming community. Prices may go lower later should the farmers become scared and press their grain on the market.

"Farmers have declared a moratorium, such as the bankers declared in 1907," as an Indiana man puts it. "They will pay up when they sell their grain, when prices are more satisfactory."

Receipts Below Average.

Farmers are selling a fair quantity of grain, but primary receipts are below the average. Farmers are not following the advice of their leaders, as many are selling wheat to a fair extent at around $1.40 to $1.50 in Kansas, and it is being taken by exporters as fast as offered and sold abroad. Export sales in the last three weeks have been around 30,000,000 bu. With so much wheat being sold abroad, cash handlers who have been bearish have turned to the constructive side of the market, and their information leads them to believe foreigners will continue to buy wheat for some time.

Buying of wheat at the high premiums by Great Britain, in the face of the nearness of starting of the shipping season from Argentina and Australia, creates the impression that supplies in the two countries are not up to the quality desired, and there is too much uncertainty as regards the quality and quantity. Another theory advanced is that consumptive requirements are larger than estimated.

Large Acreage Seeded.

Despite assertions by various agricultural leaders that the decline in wheat prices below cost of production would prevent farmers from seeding a large acreage, the government report giving the acreage seeded for the 1921 season suggests 40,605,000 acres, a loss of 1,152,000 acres, or 2.8 per cent from the revised acreage sown last year, and 2,612,000 acres more than harvested this year. The present acreage has been exceeded only three times in the history of wheat production and is 2,477,000 acres greater than was seeded for the season of 1914.

Wheat prices within a range of 16¢ to 18¢ last week, a break following an early bulge, with a sharp reaction. At the close prices were 4¢ to 5¢ higher for the week, despite all the depressing influences, with December 18¢, March 18.5¢, to 18.75¢, and May 18.75¢ to 18.85¢. Prices for the week follow:

December 18.75¢, March 18.75¢, May 18.75¢.

Mon. 18.75¢, Tues. 18.75¢, Wed. 18.75¢, Thurs. 18.75¢, Fri. 18.75¢, Sat. 18.75¢, Sun. 18.75¢.

Lowest prices of the season were made for corn, due to selling based on the bearish government report given out Thursday. It apparently ended liquidation on the part of weak holders for the present, brought in huge buying to close previous commitments, and resulted in a turning from the short to the long side of the market by several of the largest operators.

There are indications of cash corn declining to a delivery basis and of deliveries on December trades. The first deliveries this month were made on Saturday, 8,000 bu No. 2 white being sent out.

Railroads are getting more orders for cars from the Missouri river sections and there should be a larger movement, as farmers are selling more. Industries are running about 30 per cent capacity and buying corn moderately. An export demand is expected to help offset depressing influences.

December closed Saturday at 69¢, May 72¢, and July 73¢, showing gains of 1/4¢ for the week. Prices follow:

December 69¢, May 72¢, July 73¢.

Mon. 69¢, Tues. 69¢, Wed. 69¢, Thurs. 69¢, Fri. 69¢, Sat. 69¢, Sun. 69¢.

Lowest prices of the season were made for corn, due to selling based on the bearish government report given out Thursday. It apparently ended liquidation on the part of weak holders for the present, brought in huge buying to close previous commitments, and resulted in a turning from the short to the long side of the market by several of the largest operators.

There are indications of cash corn declining to a delivery basis and of deliveries on December trades. The first deliveries this month were made on Saturday, 8,000 bu No. 2 white being sent out.

Railroads are getting more orders for cars from the Missouri river sections and there should be a larger movement, as farmers are selling more. Industries are running about 30 per cent capacity and buying corn moderately. An export demand is expected to help offset depressing influences.

December closed Saturday at 69¢, May 72¢, and July 73¢, showing gains of 1/4¢ for the week. Prices follow:

TOPEKA, the capital of the State of Kansas, is situated in the eastern portion of the state, approximately sixty miles west of Kansas City. The city is an important distributing and industrial city, and produces a large, diversified list of manufactured goods. It is also one of the most important grain centers of the West. Transportation is furnished by the Santa Fe, Rock Island, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific Railroads.

THESE BONDS, authorized at an election, constitute a direct obligation of the entire city and are payable from an ad valorem tax levied against all taxable property therein. The proceeds of this issue will be used for the improvement and extension of the present water system.

Converting Early Maturing Investments Into Longer Ones

A great many of the short term securities issued during the progress of the war will mature early next year. It is possible to convert these investments into securities having five to fifteen years to run so as to take advantage of this low market for the new securities while realizing practically as much for the security you sell as though you held it to maturity. By this means you can perpetuate the present unusual yields of 7½% to 8½% for periods up to fifteen years.

We suggest exchanges for the following:

Sears-Roebuck 7's due 1922 to yield about 10%

The break in the price of Sears-Roebuck & Co. two year 7% notes due October 15, 1922; to a price at which the yield is about 10%, has produced in our opinion an exceptional investment bargain. We believe that conservative investors should give prompt attention to this situation. We shall be pleased to give full information on request.
